Congress adds 8.6 million workers for benefits

Jobless insurance program passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress passed compromise legislation Friday extending unemployment insurance to an estimated 8.6 million additional workers and raising the tax on employers that finances the program.

The House approved the measure 272 to 97 and the Senate accepted it by voice vote, sending it to President Ford.

The bill would bring into the federal-state unemployment insurance system state and federal employes and certain agricultural and domestic workers.

Farm operations that employ 10 or more workers for at least 20 weeks a year or pay $20,000 a quarter in wages for their services would be brought into the system.

Employers of domestics would be covered if they paid $1,000 or more in wages during a calendar quarter.

The bill would increase the federal tax on employers two tenths of one per cent and raise the wage base on which it is applied from the present $4,200 maximum to $6,000. The base increase, effective Jan. 1, 1978, would be permanent. The extra tax rate, effective Jan. 1, 1977, however, would remain in effect only until borrowings from the insurance trust fund from general Treasury revenues had been repaid. The fund has been in the red because of high unemployment and previously approved extensions.

The net effect would be to raise the maximum federal tax paid by an employer on an employe earning at least $6,000 from the present $21 to $42, eventually dropping back to $30. States separately have their own complex system of tax rates and wage bases.

The bill also would extend by one year the special unemployment assistance program for persons not regularly eligible beyond its present expiration date of Dec. 31, 1976, and allow an additional six months for phasing it out.

Legislative aides estimated the new coverage provision would increase unemployment compensation payments by $400 million to $500 million during the years 1978-1981, while extension of the special program would cost $193 million from general treasury revenues.

Pinned in car 16 days, man saves himself

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Pinned for days in a wrecked car in the rugged mountains of western Washington, John Vihtelic tried in vain to signal for help. But passing motorists didn't see him, and he realized survival would be through his own efforts.

It took 16 days, but Vihtelic freed himself. Through it all, he said his hopes of being rescued diminished.

Vihtelic was in Emanuel Hospital here Friday with doctors prepared to amputate his left leg below the knee. It was that leg, pinned to the dashboard of his car, that held him in the wreckage all that time.

Vihtelic, 27, a former Green Beret medic from Michigan, has refused to talk to newsmen, but released his account of the ordeal through the hospital.

His borrowed car missed a hairpin curve on a back road and went over a ravine the night of Sept. 12, a Sunday, as he was returning to Oregon from the Mt. Rainier area of Washington, he said.

He said he didn't think he was seriously injured. Then he found his left foot was pinned to the dashboard by a tree.

"I tried to free my foot by pulling, yanking, jerking at it," he said. "I came to realize it was pinned very tightly and it was impossible for me to free it without some other means."

The car was on its roof. Vihteic was trapped face down on the inside roof of the car, facing the back of it.

He said he found an appie the next day and a small piece of cheese a few days later. That's all he ate. For water, he rigged crude line from wire and string, tied cloth to it, threw the line into a nearby stream, dragged it back and squeezed water from the rag.

"I began chipping away at the log which held my foot. The process was very slow and the log really was too hard to make progress by banging on it," he said.

Finally, he found a rock in the car and on Monday, Sept. 27, he started to work on the log again.

In three hours, he was free.

He said he tried to cover the damaged foot with a shoe and sock, drank some water and climbed the hill to the road.

Death toll may reach 1,000, officials say

Hurricane in Mexico kills 630

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Liza cut a deadly swath across the Baja California peninsula Friday. Officials put the number of persons killed at 630 and said it could go as high as 1,000.

Many of the victims lived in a La Paz shantytown swept away by a wall of water from behind a dam broken by the storm, which carried winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

A spokesman for the port captain's office in La Paz — a desert-area resort near the southern tip of the peninsula that juts down from California — said 630 dead was the latest official count. Rogelio Felix, a spokesman for the governor's office, said the toll could reach 1,000.

The storm continued onto the Mexican mainland and started losing strength Friday evening, a weather bureau spokesman reported.

The 30-foot-high dam on the Cajoncito River — just outside this desert-area resort city on western Mexico's Baja California peninsula — gave way early Friday morning. The wall of mud and water swept through an area of makeshift shelters housing 10,000 people, carrying some shacks as far as six miles, Felix said.

Officials estimated that 14,000 persons were injured.

"We think the number of deaths could reach 1,000," Felix said. "We urgently need clothing, medicine and food. The situation is very grave. There are many people still buried in the mud. It's frightening."

Balazar Vuelna, the spokesman for the port captain's office, said in a telephone interview: "The municipal police reported a count of 350 dead in the area so far and the judiciary police, who are cooperating in the rescue, counted another 280 dead or so.

"Detachments from the army's third military zone also helped dig up bodies, which they are now burying — most of them in common graves — but they have not turned in a report yet."

Vuelna said a six-foot tidal wave swept through the La Paz port bay and into the lower parts of the city when Liza struck. "Virtually all the trees on the seaside avenue were uprooted and swept away," he said.

Nine bodies were found in a single car caught in the floodwaters.

The port city of 60,000 near the southern tip of the peninsula looked like it had been bombed. The remains of hundreds of wood, tarpaper and cardboard shanties and their contents were scattered in the town and the surrounding desert.

Throngs of people looking for loved ones filed silently through the city morgue.

"An enormous blanket of mud covers the area" below where the dam broke, Felix said. "The people there say there are dead in many places. The rescue teams are working by air and on foot to try to find the victims."

La Paz, located on the Sea of Cortez about 700 miles south of San Diego, Calif., was left without electricity and drinking water. The transpeninsular highway running from San Diego to La Paz was cut in several places.

The airport and several docks were temporarily closed. The airport was expected to reopen by Saturday.

Liza struck La Paz early Friday morning. Then it turned sharply northward, moved into the Sea of Cortez and struck again on the Mexican mainland in the state of Sonora.

The hurricane made its landfall on the mainland between Ciudad Obregon and Los Mochis with wind gusts of 100 miles an hour.

Auto talks progressing

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. on Friday held their first nighttime bargaining session since the automaker was struck 17 days ago, and a union source said a contract settlement could come this weekend.

"It could be done by Sunday," the source said at about 10 p.m., shortly after the two sides recessed following a full day of talks.

"There has been some good, solid progress, and the major pieces could fall into place," added the source. He cautioned, however, that there were still some difficulties that could ruin hopes for a weekend settlement.

Spokesmen for the union and company said efforts to fashion a new three-year industry pattern agreement were to resume early Saturday.

Respirator's off, but Karen Quinlan lives

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Karen Anne Quinlan, her body emaciated after nearly 18 months in a coma, is alive without the help of a respirator her parents wanted shut off.

But officials at Morris View Rest Home said Friday there has been no change in her condition, and doctors still say the case is hopeless.

Miss Quinlan, 22, was the subject of a landmark trial in which her parents sought to let her "die with dignity" by disconnecting the machine that helped her breathe. The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled in favor of the parents last March, overturning a lower court ruling.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., just before midnight Thursday, signed legislation allowing a doctor to shut off life-support equipment if a patient signs a living will authorizing the action. It is the first such law in the country.

The California law, effective Jan. 1, was prompted by the Quinlan case in New Jersey. The bill's author said, however, it would not affect her type of case because it requires a decision from the dying person.

Miss Quinlan fell into the coma after taking prescribed tranquilizers and drinking liquor. She was put on the respirator almost immediately to sustain her breathing.

Her parents asked doctors at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville several months later to turn off the machine. When they refused, the parents went to court.

Physicians testifed at the trial that Miss Quinlan's condition was hopeless, although she was alive by all medical standards. They said she would never regain the ability to think and probably would die soon without the respirator.

After the Supreme Court ruling, doctors at the hospital weaned Miss Quinlan from the machine. She has been breathing without it since May 23.

Miss Quinlan was transferred to the rest home here June 9. Morris County operates the home for patients on welfare.

No evidence of campaign 'improprieties'

Ford to be cleared, source claims

Watergate Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff will publicly clear President Ford and close his investigation of alleged campaign finance improprieties in Ford's old congressional district without any prosecutions, sources familiar with the probe said Friday night.

According to a Justice Department source, Ruff found no basis for criminal charges against Ford or anyone else and will say so in a public report early next week.

A source within the FBI added that the FBI has completd its investigation for Ruff and also found that there is no basis for prosecuting anyone.

The FBI source said the original allegation made by an FBI informant was found to be without substance. "I don't think anybody missed anything" in the investigation, this source said.

The FBI source said the informant's tip prompted a full investigation because "if you don't take a look at it in today's climate, that's a coverup."

Earlier the deputy attorney general said he has "absolutely no ... knowledge" that Ford was the target of the investigation into the financial affairs of Ford's home-county Republican party.

Butz severely reprimanded for his remarks about Blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford summoned Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to the Oval Office on Friday and gave him "a severe reprimand" for making remarks about blacks that Ford found "highly offensive," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

The reprimand was triggered by an account in Rolling Stone magazine by John Dean, convicted Watergate figure, in which Dean quoted an unnamed Cabinet member as using strong language when asked why blacks did not vote for Republicans in greater numbers.

As quoted in Rolling Stone and New Times, the language referred to blacks' presumed sexual and bathroom predelictions in a derogatory manner.

Nessen did not say how Ford learned that Butz was the unnamed Cabinet officer, but it was known that the White House was aware that the forthcoming issue of New Times magazine identified Butz as the one who made the remark.

Nessen said Butz expressed regret at making the remark, and an Agriculture Department spokesman said Butz issued an apology "for the unfortunate choice of language."

Dean, onetime White House counsel in the Nixon administration, said the incident occurred aboard a plane leaving Kansas City following the Republican National Convention there in August.

Sen. Edward Brooke, RMass., the Senate's only black member, called on Ford to fire Butz.

Nessen said in a statement:

"The President informed the secretary that such language and attitudes were not acceptable from a member of his administration. The President told the secretary the remarks were highly offensive to him and to the American people."

Nessen said "the President's statement to Secretary Butz amounted to a severe reprimand."

Butz' spokesman said the secretary "regretted any offense which may have been given to any person or any group, and issued a complete apology."

"He said that although he was merely repeating a comment made decades ago by a ward politician in a large midwestern city, even that was no excuse for the incident," the spokesman said in a statement.

The incident was reminiscent of one a few years ago in which a Butz joke was widely regarded as offensive to Roman Catholics and Italians.

Clocks stop for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the clocks in the Senate and House chambers standing still, the 94th Congress struggled early today to wind up its business and take its place in history.

The leadership of both chambers stopped the clocks when it became apparent that wrangling in the Senate would prevent passage of key bills before a midnight Friday deadline for adjournment.

Jane Pauley, 25, is 'Today's' new co-host

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley, a 25-year-old Chicago newscaster, will succeed Barbara Walters on the "Today" show beginning Monday, Oct. 11, NBC announced on Friday.

Miss Walters left NBC for a $1 million-a-year job as co-anchorwoman of ABC's Evening News program with Harry Reasoner. She debuts with Reasoner on Monday, one week before Miss Pauley begins on NBC.

NBC declined to discuss the salary Miss Pauley will earn as co-host on "Today" with Tom Brokaw, 36, the network's former White House correspondent.

Miss Pauley's agent said the figure was over $100,000 a year. He would not be more precise. Her salary, however, is not thought to be anywhere near Brokaw's $400,000 a year. He started on "Today" in September. NBC considers Brokaw as Walters' replacement, not Miss Pauley, who has been in television only four years. She has earned $55,000 in Chicago.

Ford to launch six-day trip through the West

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will launch a six-day western trip to California, Oklahoma and Texas on Monday, his press secretary said Friday.

The centerpiece of the journey will be his second televised debate, on foreign policy and national security affairs, with Democrat Jimmy Carter in San Francisco on Wednesday.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will leave Washington late Monday afternoon and fly to San Francisco, where he will stay in a private home during a three-night stay.

On Tuesday, Nessen said Ford will participate in at least one public event, although he said details have not been worked out.

Following Wednesday's debate, the President plans to drop in on a party of campaign supporters who will watch the proceedings on television. He did the same in Philadelphia following the first debate on Sept. 23.

Nessen said the President would leave San Francisco early Thursday morning for Los Angeles, where he will tour a plant of North American R well Corp. set aside production of the bomber. Later Thur morning, the spokes said, Ford will take pa a "voters' convocation" the campus of the Uni sity of Southern Califor

On Thursday night, President will join Ron Reagan, his defeat challenger for the G presidential nomination, a black-tie GOP fun raising dinner. T President's remarks w be broadcast by close circuit television to si ilar dinners around t country.

Nessen reported tha Friday morning will b devoted to meetings wit civic leaders and other from the Los Angeles area followed by participatio in a civic festival in sub urban Glendale.

Early Friday afternoon Ford will fly from Bur bank, Calif., to Lawton Okla., for an overnight stop. Nessen said plans for events there were incomplete.

On Saturday, the President will fly on to Dallas to take part in the opening of the Texas State Fair, and, in the afternoon, is expected to attend the Texas-Oklahoma football game in the Cotton Bowl. Ford plans to return to the White House around midnight Oct. 9.

Apology asked for Graham

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Ford's campaign coordinator in Oklahoma says Billy Graham, the evangelist, deserves an immediate apology from Jimmy Carter's son.

Jeff Carter, the Democratic presidential candidate's youngest son, was quoted Tuesday as saying in Tulsa that Graham got his degree as a doctor of religion for $5.

Graham, said Ford's spokesman in the state, Rick Shelby, "is a very prominent American and Jeff Carter has done him a great disservice. I think he should tender an immediate apology."

Young Carter, 24, campaigning the next day in Lees Summit, Mo., acknowledged he had referred to an honorary degree and suggested a well-known evangelist should not make political judgments. But he denied saying Graham had bought the degree for $5.

Jailor loses job

RIVERSIDE (AP) — A Riverside County jailer has been fired and charged with a criminal misdemeanor for promising special treatment to a 20-year-old in exchange for sexual favors from his 17-year-old girl friend.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Ralph Woodworth said the youth declined and reported the offer by Richard Prokop, 41, to Prokop's superiors.

A pretrial hearing has been set for Oct. 6 in Municipal Court.

Carter marks 52nd birthday

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jimmy Carter celebrated his 52nd birthday Friday by campaigning from Maine to Tennessee and predicted he will win the presidency overwhelmingly despite "fumbles and mistakes and honest errors."

He also pledged to veto as president a Senate bill overhauling the federal criminal code if it includes unwarranted intrusions on privacy and protects unwarranted government secrecy.

Injecting a cautious note into a day of "Happy Birthday" songs and cakes and candles, Carter told union leaders in Portland, Maine, that voting apathy among blue collar workers could doom his campaign.

"The one potentially fatal aspect of this year's election is that many of our working people have simply given up because of the disgrace of the Nixon administration and the failures of the Ford administration," he said.

He urged the union leaders to inspire their members to get out the traditionally Democratic labor vote.

In Georgia, an official of the Brunswick Pulp and Paper Co. said Carter and his family had twice been guests while he was governor at a lodge the firm maintains in the southeastern part of the state.

Carter told reporters traveling with him that he had indeed stayed at the lodge.

A Carter spokeswoman, Betty Rainwater, said the weekend outings were publicized when the Carter family took them. She noted that Carter, as governor, sponsored stringent new environmental legislation affecting companies including Brunswick.

Rains strike again; crop loss now estimated at $2 billion

SACRAMENTO (AP) — New harvest-time rains hit California Friday, the latest in a series of agricultural disasters that have caused losses this year estimated by farmers at nearly $2 billion.

The statewide rain capped a year that began with one of the worst winter droughts in California history, and included harvest-time cannery and freezer plant strikes.

The new storms hit raisin growers hard.

"It's really sad. They've given up," said Kalem Barserian, manager of the Raisin Bargaining Association at Fresno in the San Joaquin Valley where the nation's entire raisin crop is produced.

"There's no hope" of saving their crop, he added.

No firm figure on the raisin loss was available, but by Barserian's estimates it could exceed $90 million.

Rains also fell in the Napa Valley, in the midst of the harvest of premium wine grapes.

With only a third to a half of the crop picked, the remainder was endangered by rain-caused rot.

Bob Dwyer, executive secretary of the Napa Valley Grape Growers Association estimated the crop would total only about 30,000 tons, down from last year's 50,000.

He said many of the grapes still on the vines are cabernet variety, but the most susceptible to rot are the still unpicked chenin blanc, riesling and zinfandel grapes.

The rains have caused lettuce prices to double in the last few days, according to the California Farm Bureau Federation.

"The reason the price is so high right now is that nobody has been able to harvest any because of mud in the fields. You can't get vehicles and workers in. As soon as it dries out a little bit, the supply will increase and the price will come down accordingly," said Dick Thornton of the Salinas Lettuce Growers and Shippers Association.

The cotton crop in the San Joaquin Valley was also damaged.

"The qualiy of the cotton is damaged to an extent no one can really tell yet," said Jay Ericsson, spokesman for Calcot Cooperative at Bakersfield.

He said rain discolors cotton, turning it gray.

"The price goes down dramatically," he said.

The new rains also caused heavy damage to the dry bean and lima bean crops.

A strike by 5,000 Teamster Union members against eight of the state's 15 frozen food processing plants continued into its sixth week.

Prospect of life on Mars dim

PASADENA (AP) — Viking 2's chances of finding life on Mars dimmed further Friday when the robot's second organic chemistry experiment drew a blank.

For the second time in as many days, Viking 2 told Earthmen it could find no organic materials in the red dirt, all but laying to rest the Viking mission's hopes of finding life — past or present — on Mars.

Organic compounds form the basic structure of living things on Earth and are found in living creatures as well as the remains of Earthlings eons past.

If Mars had ever supported life as we know it, traces of organic compounds could likely be found in sifting through the red soil.

That is exactly what Viking 2 has done — twice now — with no success.

In the latest test, a complex instrument called a gas chromatograph-mass spectrometer baked a small bit of soil to 350 degrees Farenheit in an attempt to break up and identify any organic compound that might have been imbedded in the soil.

It found some organics — but only those that Viking 2 had brought with it on its odyssey to Mars, remnants of some cleaning fluid.

Scientists, however, were not quite ready to put the last nail in the coffin on the question of life. They are waiting for the results from last-ditch searches for organics.

Citizens can hire own arborist

Claremont adopts guidelines to save elms

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council has adopted guidelines for residents who wish to pay private firms to maintain the elms in front of their homes on Indian Hill Boulevard.

In a memo to the council, City Manager Norman King stressed that the city's major concern is that a corrective and preventive tree maintenance program be initiated as soon as possible so the life of the existing trees may be extended and "we are protected as much as possible from the Dutch Elm disease."

King explained the maintenance should include extensive cutting of upper limbs to reduce top weight, cabling and rodding, and corrective pruning to control sucker growth and limbs at unnatural angles.

The council approved the following conditions for those preferring to hire a private arborist:

—The work will be done solely by a recognized professional arborist who has sufficient liability and property damage insurance, including workers compensation insurance. The firm and certificate of insurance must be approved by the parks and recreation director.

—No work by a private arborist shall begin until the parks and recreation department has been given advance notice.

—No work shall begin by a private arborist until he has submitted an outline of the type of work he will do, and a written agreement has been signed by the parks and recreation director.

—Work must begin by Nov. 30.

—Should a private owner wish to continue employing a private arborist for tree maintenance in future years, the owner will have the responsibility to contact the city at appropriate intervals to secure additional approvals.

—Emergency work resulting because of storm or accident will remain the responsibility of the city tree crew regardless of any agreements in effect.

Councilman Richard Newton called the conditions "protective guidelines to fall back on."

"I would hope that this would go forward without our having to see these guidelines again," Newton said.

"There should be a cooperative working relationship among all parties involved," he said.

Miss Lavinia Larson, 624 N. Indian Hill Blvd., said she is concerned about the logistics involved.

To a proposed city condition that an arborist should prepare a written estimate for each job and submit it to the city, Miss Larson said that would be "practically impossible to work out. Arborists must send out bills to scores of customers. I can't see how this can be complied with. It is unrealistic."

The council deleted the condition about a written estimate being necessary.

Miss Larson also said she doesn't see any reason for three-way agreements involving the city, the property owner or resident and the arborist.

"We have a lot of renters and out-of-town owners on Indian Hill Boulevard," she explained.

She suggests that one arborist might do gang work for several residents.

Council members said they don't see why 20 residents couldn't hire a single arborist.

"I see no reason why residents couldn't sign a group agreement," said Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman.

As to the requirement that work should begin by Nov. 30, Miss Larson informed the council that arborist J. Harold Mitchell will be on vacation for several weeks and therefore not available.

She cautioned that too many strings in the conditions "will make things complicated and arborists will not be interested. It should be a blanket proposition."

As to doubt expressed by Miss Larson as to whether agreements can be signed and work started by Nov. 30, Mayor Bertye Smith said that unless deadlines are set, sometimes things never get done.

"We want to prevent Dutch Elm disease," Councilwoman Claire McDonald commented.

Gold Rush days coming to Diamond Bar Oct. 9

Cowboy Monty Montana and his Wild West Show will be featured at a Bicentennial Gold Rush Day Celebration Oct. 9, at The Country's Equestrian Center in Diamond Bar.

The day-long event is planned to raise money to finance Diamond Bar-Walnut youth group activities.

The celebration will begin with a chuck wagon breakfast outside the center amid bales of hay. Food will be served from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Price of the meal will be $1.25. Members of Diamond Bar women's clubs are assisting with this project.

At 10 a.m., the Foothill Express Co. Western Stunt Show will begin a series of performances which will continue throughout the day.

Actors and actresses in the company will perform in front of a 100-foot reconstructed western street.

In a salute to California's Spanish heritage, The Country's Gold Rush committee selected Eugene Molina and his Charro group (Mexican rodeo) to perform at 11 a.m.

Along with Molina will be Las Adelitas Escaramuza Charra, a mounted Mexican-American costumed drill team, and music by the Calistatlan Mariachies.

Noon will be fiesta time. Food will be sold inside and outside the center, as well as in the breakfast area.

Food booths will be operated by the Diamond Bar Little League, Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA, Pop Warner Youth Football Association, Cadet Girl Scouts Troop 295, Junior All-American Football of Diamond Bar-Walnut, Diamond Bar Trotters, and the Walnut Junior Woman's Club.

Proceeds from food sold will go the individual youth organizations. Throughout the day game booths will be in operation.

Denham is free on $3,000 bail.

Pomonan sentenced for kidnaping

A Young Pomona man has been sentenced to state prison for his part in the kidnapping and robbery of a pair of door-to-door salesmen in Pomona June 2.

Luther W. Sye, 22, was denied probation by Pomona Superior Court Judge David F. Cunningham. Sye faces a term of one to 25 years.

Two juvenile youths also have been arrested and petitioned to Juvenile Court. A fifth person is being sought.

Sye pleaded guilty to the charges Aug. 25.

Coolant used in cars can be fatal to animals

The antifreeze or coolant used in cars could be fatal to pets, said Dr. Robert J. Schroeder, deputy medical director, Los Angeles County Department of Health Services.

Ethylene glycol, the primary ingredient found in radiator cooling products, has been determined as the cause of death in a number of animals recently submitted to the Comparative Medical and Veterinary Services laboratory for post-mortem examination.

"The syrupy liquid is attractive to animals and they often lap it up from garage floors," Dr. Schroeder said. "They like it because it's sweet and gives them a general feeling of euphoria very much like alcohol intoxication. Death occurs much later — the animals usually lapse into a coma six to eighteen hours after consuming the poison and then die."

U-turns not legal

Pomona Valley motorists are warned by the California Highway Patrol that U-turns are not permitted from the two-way left turn lanes on many valley highways in business districts.

A two-way left turn lane is designated by a broken line in the middle of a wide highway or road.

Capt. James Perkins, area commander, said there has been an increase in the number of drivers being cited for mid-block U-turns in business districts. "Many of the motorists have been surprised because they believed the law dealing with two-way left-turn lanes permitted U-turns at any location," said Capt. Perkins.

Perkins said the law reads, "U-turns from a two-way left-turn lane (designated by broken lines on both sides) are therefore not permitted in business districts, except at an intersection."

Joseph Warren, in the political foment of pre-Revolutionary Boston, distinguished himself as a political writer, orator, and organizer. In the final phase of fighting the Battle of Bunker Hill, Warren was shot and killed. Buried in an unmarked grave, Warren's body was positively identified nine months later, when the British left Boston, by the two artificial teeth Paul Revere had made for his friend shortly before he died. This is probably the first recorded instance of what has since become the standard procedure of identifying corpses by their dental records.

Diamond Bar Congregational Church

Joins Project Burning Bush

The Diamond Bar Congregational Church has joined the School of Theology at Claremont in Project Burning Bush.

The name, Project Burning Bush, has been drawn from the third chapter of Exodus in the Bible where Moses experiences both the presence of God and a divine commission to assume responsibility for a mission on behalf of others.

The faculty at the School of Theology and the Diamond Bar church believe that there is no split in authentic Christian faith between spiritual discipline and global responsibility, and want to pursue that insight in the education of ministers.

Project Burning Bush may be described as the following:

— An experiment in which local congregations become authentic partners with the School of Theology in the educating of young people for Christian ministry.

A search for a life style which reflects the identity of Christian spirituality and global responsibilities.

Project Burning Bush was started in the spring of 1975 when the Lilly Foundation made a grant to the School of Theology to make possible an important experiment in theological education.

School officials decided to adopt a curricular theme in which all disciplines of the school would be challenged to come to grips with contemporary problems associated with world development, and in the presence of a deepening quest for experience of the sacred both in and beyond the churches, the faculty in looking for a new model of theological education which could correlate those interests decided on "contextual education."

Mitzi Eilts, a Los Angeles State graduate and a second-year student at the School of Theology, has been appointed student intern.

She will work with the pastor of the Diamond Bar church and a Burning Bush steering committee in coordinating the project there.

Miss Eilts will head a class Sunday at 9:45 a.m., entitled, "Feeding the Many Hungers," which she will coordinate.

Baha'i attending parley

Members of Pomona Baha'i community will attend a Baha'i district convention Sunday at the Lynwood Civic Center to elect delegates to the body's annual national convention scheduled next April in Wilmette, Ill.

Pomonans planning to attend the Lynwood meet are Andrew Johnson, Gladys Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William Boddy and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Apodaca.

The Baha'is of Southern California will elect seven national convention delegates. They also will discuss issues of importance to Baha'is in the region.

The Baha'i Faith is an independent worldwide religion. It was founded in Iran in 1844. The religion teaches that all forms of prejudice must be given up and that all the races and peoples of the earth should live in unity.

Namesake

Authorities disagreed on where the ancient Romans got the name Junius, our month of June. Perhaps from Juno, queen of their gods, possibly from juniores (youths), to whom the month was dedicated, as May was to maiores, the elders.

Registration is $2 plus a small donation for lunch. No child care will be provided.

The Day of Renewal is open to all denominations.

Further information on the program may be obtained by phoning either (213) 479-8326 or 686-0258.

Good riddance

Pennsylvania was founded because King Charles II owed $16,000 to a dead admiral who, alive, had been grieved by his son's embrace of the Quakers and by his frequent run-ins with the Establishment. The King was happy to get rid of this son, William Penn, by settling the debt with a grant of land in America.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your presence will be a welcome addition to any social gathering today, especially for members of the opposite sex.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're better equipped to handle the leadership role than your peers will be today. Assert yourself if necessary.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use an indirect approach today to achieve your ends. Don't be devious, but also don't be too obvious regarding your purposes.

Your Birthday, Oct. 3, 1976

It's to your advantage this year to become more involved with groups or organizations. Valuable contacts and friendships can be made.

'Open records' bill vetoed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Declaring the cost would be too much, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has vetoed a bill to let people see and correct some of the records the state keeps on them.

Instead, Brown on Thursday night issued an executive order which he said would do "substantially" the same thing "at a fraction of the cost."

The measure by Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, was aimed at protecting people's privacy by regulating the collection of personal data by state agencies. Brown said it would cost $4 million to start the program and $13 million a year to operate it.

He said his executive order "will do most of what is essential in this bill" by requiring state agencies to:

—Maintain "only that information which is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency."

—Give any individual, upon request, access to his complete file — allowing the person to see an active file within 30 days and a file in storage within 60 days.

—Permit the individual to request in writing an amendment to the file, and within 30 days make the requested correction, file a statement of dispute, or agree with the individual to destroy the disputed element.

—Provide at a reasonable cost copies of any documents in a file the individual is entitled to see.

The order, like the bill, does not open state records relating to crimes, testing, medical or psychiatric material, or tax investigations.

"Individuals should have a right to gain access to information pertaining to them which is maintained by government unless there is a clear and overriding public interest in withholding such information," Brown's order said.

Norton, Foreman may vie for title

By Associated Press

The World Boxing Association said Friday it would recognize the winner of a Ken Norton-George Foreman fight as world heavyweight champion, if and when it received official notification that Muhammad Ali had retired.

Rodrigo Sanchez, vice president of the WBA Rating Committee, said Norton and Foreman should fight within 90 days of when the title is officially declared vacant.

"George Foreman has enough credits to be declared the new champion," Sanchez said, "but unfortunately when the title becomes vacant, the two top contenders should be called together to fight within 90 days of the time the title is declared vacant. According to chapter eight of the WBA regulations, the winner of the Norton-Foreman fight would be recognized as world's champion."

Earlier Friday, World Boxing Council President Jose Sulaiman said the WBC would recognize George Foreman as the No. 1 contender and, once he has received official confirmation of Ali's retirement, the WBC would vote on who Foreman would fight for the championship.

A spokesman for Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said Ali's retirement would be made official when the champion returned from Turkey.

Meanwhile, there were claims to the championship made in behalf of both Foreman and Norton.

Promoter Don King said at a news conference at his Rockefeller Plaza office: "If Muhammad Ali has retired, we have nothing else to do as square-minded, truthful, honest boxing people ... than to say George Foreman is heavyweight champion of the world— George Foreman because of his record, not because of a dictatorship or declaratory thing.

"He knocked out Norton in two rounds in Caracas, Venezuela, and came back to win the title from Joe Frazier."

Earlier, both Norton and his manager claimed a "people's championship."

Bob Biron, Ken Norton's manager, took advantage of the fuss to immediately lay claim to the title for Norton, who three days earlier lost a close decision to Ali which Biron had protested.

"Norton is the world champion," Biron said. "He defeated Ali. The decision was stolen. We feel he (Norton) is the true champion, and everybody else is a challenger. We are not interested in an elimination."

Norton, however, admitted Foreman's name could not be dismissed. "After the fight I had with Ali, there's nobody else around but me and Foreman," Norton said. "I am regarded as the people's champion now."

Saints crush Walnut

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Sports Writer

San Dimas High won its Hacienda League opener with Walnut in every category Friday night at Bonita, whipping the Mustangs 19-0.

However, coach Bob Baiz' squad was bitten by the injury bug, as senior halfback Fred Carter suffered a broken collarbone late in the contest and may be lost for the season.

Carter's injury put somewhat of a damper on what was otherwise a complete team victory for the host Saints.

They dominated the contest from start to finish, limiting the usually potent Mustang attack to a net of 115 yards in total offense.

Even more impressive was the way the fired-up Saint defenders shut off Mustang running back Kevin Morgan.

Morgan entered the game with 310 yards rushing in two games and five touchdowns, but was a marked man from start to finish. The talented senior was limited to only 60 yards in 22 carries, his longest run being an eight-yard tote in the fourth quarter.

By that time the Saints had put the contest out of reach, scoring twice in the second quarter and once at the start of the final stanza.

While the Walnut running game bogged down, its passing attack wasn't much better against the aggressive Saints.

Quarterbacks Kevin Loggins and Steve Green spent the night being constantly harrassed while trying to pass. The net result was only eight completions in 22 attempts, with the Saint secondary picking off three of those passes. Loggins and Green were sacked eight times trying to pass.

Perry Aris, with two interceptions, Keith Smith, with one interception and four QB sacks, and linebacker Doug Gates, with a fumble recovery, led the S.D. defense.

While the Saint defenders were throttling the Mustang offense, the San Dimas attack looked sharp.

The Saints rambled for 220 yards on the ground, led by fullback Bob Pleasant with 133 yards on only 11 totes. Quarterback Don Hargett added three pass completions, his first of the season, good for 37 yards, giving S.D. a total of 257 yards in offense.

San Dimas broke a scoreless game with a touchdown midway through the second quarter, and from there it was all Saints.

That score came on a 60-yard drive. Key play in that march was a 17-yard pass from Hargett to Mike Nunley.

Hargett himself did the scoring honors, taking it in from the one after a Pleasant run had advanced the pigskin to that spot. Sonny LaFargue added the PAT kick to make it 7-0.

The Saints came back to score again five minutes later, as they put together a 57-yard drive.

The bulk of that march was provided by Pleasant, as he broke the Mustangs' back with a twisting, weaving 38-yard dash for a TD.

That score seemed to turn the tide completely in favor of the Saints, and Walnut never really threatened to score thereafter.

The final TD of the contest came in the fourth quarter, and ironically it was set up by the play on which Carter was injured.

The Saint halfback had run 11 yards to give S.D. a first-and-goal on the Walnut eight, but he was tackled hard and carried off the field. He was later carried from the field by ambulance, the injury being an apparent broken collarbone.

Quarterback Hargett put that final score across with a five-yard run, making it 19-0.

Garvey's 200th hit paces L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rookie Dennis Lewallyn and Charlie Hough combined to stop San Diego and Steve Garvey reached the 200-hit plateau for the third straight year as Los Angeles defeated the Padres 8-1 Friday night.

Garvey is the first Dodger to collect 200 or more hits three years in a row and is only the second member of the Dodgers to hit the magic number three times. Hall of Famer Zach Wheat did it in 1922, 1924 and 1925.

Lewallyn's victory was his first in the majors. He pitched hitless baseball for four innings and left for a pinch hitter in the seventh after allowing only five hits. Hough finished up, giving up the Padres only run in the ninth.

Bob Owchinko, 0-2, started for San Diego but was knocked out in the third when the Dodgers opened a 4-0 lead. Jerry Johnson took over and was the victim of the three-run fifth inning, aided by two wild pitches.

Lewallyn, in his second major league start, did not allow a hit the first four innings. But in the fifth, Doug Rader led off with an infield single and Fred Kendall followed with a base hit to left. The 23-year-old right-hander escaped when Mike Champion lined into a double play and Jerry Johnson struck out.

Lewallyn pitched out of trouble again in the seventh when Rader singled with one out and, after Kendall flied out, Champion doubled to left. Merv Rettemund then grounded to third base for the final out.

Rick Auerbach took over at shortstop for Bill Russell in the fourth inning and started the Dodgers' three-run rally in the fifth with a single to center. It was his first hit since May 20 and only his fifth all year.

In the Dodgers' fifth, an error by left fielder Jerry Turner and two wild pitches by Johnson aided the Los Angeles rally.

Spartan comeback beats Giants

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

For a half, it looked as though the Damien Spartans, defending co-champions of the San Antonio League, would spend the first week of the 1976 SAL season in a tie for last place.

But the Spartans scored 21 second-half points — 15 of them in the final period — to down a game Ganesha Giant squad, 21-14, Friday night at Cal Poly.

Damien (2-1) staged two impressive touchdown drives in the fourth quarter after a first half of inconsistent offense.

"We settled down for the second half," said a relieved Rich Larson, after watching his squad score the winning touchdown with just 51 seconds left in the ballgame. The Spartans looked like anything but champions in the first half and trailed 8-0 when the gun sounded for intermission.

"When we went in for halftime — there wasn't any use yelling at anybody — I just told the guys to settle down.

"We were in position to score a few times in the first half but we couldn't do it. I told the kids all they had to do was be patient. We have the offense to score points."

The Spartans looked like a different team in the second half, especially on the two final touchdown drives. The winning march began on Damien's 33-yard line with 5:30 left in the game and culminated in a five-yard scoring run by Jason Wight with 51 seconds left. The drive took 11 plays and included three first downs — one of them a two-yard buck by Leo Burke on a fourth-and-inches play at Ganesha's 42.

Damien had tied the score at 14 with 8:02 left in the game on a five-yard pass from Dan Marconi to Tom Lopez and a two-point conversion toss from Marconi to John Rayburn. That drive covered 60 yards in 12 plays and included two first downs on third-and-long plays and one on a fourth-and-one.

Damien's first TD came in the third quarter following a Ganesha fumble at the Giants' 33. Burke scored from a foot out on his fourth consecutive carry. Burke then ran for what would have been the tying two-point conversion but a holding penalty nullified the play and the Spartans failed on a pass play from the 18, leaving the Giants in the lead, 8-6.

Ganesha's Floyd Eddings ran the ensuing kickoff back 27 yards to the 50 and, three plays later, Floyd Williams scored on a 46-yard flanker reverse. Placeholder Jeff Seaman tried to pass for two points but failed and the Giants led, 14-6 with 3:57 left in the third quarter.

The Giants (0-3) had scored the first touchdown of the game with just 21 seconds left in the first half on a three-yard sneak by quarterback Joe Madrigal. Ganesha's Greg Flynn had recovered a Damien fumble on the Spartan 35 to set up the TD and Eddings ran for two points.

Eddings was the game's leading rusher with 71 yards on 16 carries. Burke and Wight each rushed 15 times for Damien, with Burke gaining 60 yards and Wight 57.

Doug Paul added 25 yards rushing on five rushes for the Spartans and Marconi completed 9 of 19 for 85 yards. Ganesha's Madrigal completed 3 of 9 for 51 yards.

Damien rolled up 214 total yards to Ganesha's 183. The Spartans committed two turnovers in the first half but none in the second while the Giants lost three of seven fumbles. Damien had 13 first downs, four in the first half and nine in the second. Ganesha earned seven in the first half and two in the second.

The Spartans will host Pomona Friday and Ganesha will host Claremont Thursday at MSAC.

Bearcats surprise Royal Oak

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Bonita High looks for real. Quarterback Sanford Coggins is for real and the Bonita offense is for real (and considering the odds, the Bearcat defense is not too bad either).

In a key Hacienda League opening game, Coach Pete Lopez, Coggins and company stunned the No. 7 ranked CIF 2-A Royal Oak Romans 35-26 Friday night at Charter Oak.

In an amazing offensive show, the Bearcats trailed the highly-touted Romans as late as the 5:50 mark of the final quarter, 26-21 . . . suddenly, there was an explosion.

Just trying to protect the lead and the ball, Royal Oak began a steady march deep in its own territory. Chris Lancaster (18 carries, 63 yards), the usually reliable Roman fullback, was smacked at his 21 yard-line by Bearcat defensive end Rich Doyle and lost the pigskin. Following a mad scramble, Bonita nose guard Mike Sly recovered the fumble at the 17, giving the Bearcats new life.

Running-back Bob Vidaure (71 yards), slithered his way down to the four, where Coggins promptly sneaked it in at 5:15 for the go-ahead score.

Angels knock A's out

OAKLAND (AP) — The Kansas City Royals clinched the American League West pennant when the second-place Oakland A's were beaten 2-0 Friday night by the California Angels on Rusty Torres' home run in the 12th inning.

The Royals had missed a chance to win the West title earlier in the night when they suffered a 4-3 loss to the Minnesota Twins at home.

Torres' homer with one out in the 12th broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Oakland's Vida Blue and Frank Tanana of the Angels. Blue, 18-13, gave up seven hits.

The Angels scored another run in the 12th on a double by Mike Miley and a single by Terry Humphrey.

Tanana, 19-10, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 14 in 11 innings. The A's only threatened twice in the game, loading the bases in the ninth inning, and had a runner on third with two outs in the fifth inning.

Dick Drago pitched the 12th inning for the Angels and retired the A's to pick up his sixth save of the year.

Royals take West flag

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals won the American League West pennant Friday night with an assist from the California Angels.

"I wished we'd had won tonight so we didn't have to do it this way—but I'll take it any way we can get it...I'm not that proud," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog after learning that the Angels had eliminated Oakland from the race with a 2-0, 12-inning victory over the A's.

Herzog and the rest of his Royals had to wait several hours before breaking open the champagne and toasting their first championship in history.

Garey's defense stops Montclair

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Garey High, behind the power running of its backfield and a stingy defense, held Montclair to just 80 total yards in its 19-0 triumph over the Cavaliers Friday night at Montclair High.

The Vikings, now 2-0 on the season, rolled up 234 yards on the ground against the Montclair defense. Garey's front line was able to block out the Cavalier linebackers which opened up running room for the Viking backs.

"Our running backs did a super job tonight," noted Garey's Lawson Bush. "Our offensive line was able to open things up for the backs.

"So many things went right for us tonight offensively and defensively. We had chances to add more points on the board but turnovers kept us from doing so."

Garey's Elijah Turner rushed through the Cavalier defense for 56 yards and three touchdowns. Teammate Ralph Dixon was the Viking work horse carrying the ball 12 times for 88 yards.

Quarterback Al Clay's passes were on target most of the evening as he connected on 10 of 18 for 125 aerial yards. Clay added 27 yards on the ground as he eluded the Montclair rush.

The Garey defense was very stingy all night on the Cavalier offense as it held Montclair to 29 yards in first half action. Montclair's longest gain of the night was a 30-yard romp by Tom Weaver midway through the final quarter of play.

Steve Jetton, bothered by a strong Viking rush was unable to complete a pass in 11 attempts.

Montclair's deepest penetration into Viking territory came late in the contest when the Cavaliers recovered a Garey fumble on the 34 yard line. Montclair could not get any closer to the Garey end zone as Jetton threw two consecutive incomplete passes.

Garey and Montclair had battled to a 0-0 tie in the first quarter as both offenses were sluggish. Garey's three fumbles stopped attacks deep in Cavalier territory.

Garey finally began to dominate the contest in the second half of action. Garey built its lead thanks to a Dixon interception of a Jetton pass on the Cavalier 27 yard line. It was all downhill for Montclair after this errant pass.

Even though Garey didn't punch the ball over the goal line in the third quarter, the Vikings gave the Montclair defense a workout. Montclair's offense managed to handle the ball only five times during the third quarter. Garey rolled up 158 yards yet they failed to score until two minutes into the fourth quarter. Garey averaged 7.1 yards a play during the third quarter of play.

Garey high returns to action Thursday night against Chino at Bonita High. Montclair, 1-2, tangled with Upland in a Friday night class at Upland High.

Ex-Cowboys pace Claremont

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Chris Pruitt and Greg Setlich, a pair of former Chino High football players, came back to haunt the Cowboys Friday night at Citrus College.

Now performing for the Claremont High Wolfpack, Pruitt and Setlich led the 'Pack to a 26-7 victory over Chino.

With the win, Claremont finds itself in a four-way tie for the San Antonio League lead after the first week of grid play.

Claremont quarterback Pruitt directed the 'Pack offensive unit, as he tossed nine passes (completing five) for 68 yards. He also picked up 14 yards on the ground.

The Cowboys took an early 7-0 lead in the first quarter. Gaining field position on the Claremont 33 yard line, Chino marched down to the one yard line on seven plays, with the big play coming on a 20-yard pass play from John Labrucherie to tight end Pat Krysiak.

Running back Dan Reyes fought his way into the end zone for the initial score. Tony Gonzales added the extra point for Chino's only tallies of the night.

Following that touchdown, the Claremonters took over the ball game for good. Alternating runs between Grant Warhurst and Kevin Britton, the 'Pack advanced to a first-and-10 situation at the Cowboys' 30 yard line.

Junior fullback Warhurst then took a handoff from Pruitt, made a quick move to the outside, and raced down the right sideline for the score. Jerry Van Zee's first of three extra points made the score 7-7.

On a third-and-four play on their own 32 yard line, the Cowboys messed up a handoff and the ball fell free to the turf. Enter 6-0, 200 pound tackle Setlich. He pounced on the ball to put the 'Pack in business at Chino's 27.

Warhurst, who played probably his finest game in a maroon and white uniform, added a two-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, after a series of rushes by the 'Pack.

Warhurst compiled 110 yards on 11 carries, and also made three receptions for 47 yards. Britton picked up 56 yards on 22 totes, as Claremont's next best runner.

The 'Pack poured it on the Cowboys with a safety and Van Zee's 32 yard field goal with 7:39 to go in the game.

Labrucherie completed 12 of 16 passes for 139 yards to lead Chino. Reyes wound up with 38 yards on 14 carries.

The 1975 SAL co-champions, Chino, obviously did not play one of its better games — although the Cowboys have not really had a successful outing this season, as they remain winless.

All Claremont coach Esper Keiser had to say about his spirited crew was, "It was a total team effort," and as he turned to one of his assistants he said, "Let's go all the way!"

Thinking of winning a championship at this early date in the season may be a bit premature, yet the coach certainly has the right to celebrate a convincing victory.

JCs finish non-loop play

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The valley's three junior colleges will wind up preleague football action tonight against three highly-regarded foes.

Mt. San Antonio College, sporting a fancy 3-0 record, will go against L.A. Harbor. That contest is set for MSAC's Memorial Stadium and a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Citrus (1-1) will take on Rio Hondo (1-1) in another potentially exciting battle tonight at the Owls' stadium in Azusa. That game will also start at 7:30 p.m.

Chaffey (1-1) will travel east to Barstow to play Barstow JC. That tilt will also start at 7:30 p.m.

MSAC has looked sharp in beating three straight opponents but the Mounties can't afford to take Harbor lightly this evening.

Harbor edged Mel Eaton's squad 13-7 last year and is a talented team despite the 0-2 season mark the Seahaws will carry into tonight's battle.

"L.A. Harbor is a typical L.A. Harbor team," Eaton said. "They have good size and are very aggressive.

"Their defense comes after you. They possess a lot of speed in their secondary."

The Mountie mentor notes that the Seahawks will be using a veer-oriented offense. Harbor's two losses were to El Camino and San Diego Mesa, both ranked in the top twenty in the state.

The Mounties will be healthy for the game and Eaton plans no changes in his starting lineup.

One change in that lineup last week was the presence of Bonita High product Phil Mertz at middle guard on defense. Mertz joined Gerard Belletierre and Ben Lopez on the Mounties three-man line.

There's a possibility that Eaton may have his quarterbacks, Brian Bethke and Steve Taylor, throwing the football a bit more

The Mounties open play in the rugged South Coast Conference next week vs. Santa Ana at home, and the feeling in some quarters is that MSAC will have to throw the pigskin more to win in SCC play.

Thus it figures that Eaton might open up the MSAC offense a bit more for the Seahawks.

Citrus' offense figures to have a diffenrent type of challenge vs. Rio Hondo, a team which has allowed only 14 points in two games.

The Roadrunners rebounded from an opening 14-7 loss to MSAC to trounce Santa Ana 38-0 two weeks ago. Both the Owls and 'Runners have had last week off.

Citrus handed Rio Hondo its only regular-season loss last fall with a 28-7 decision. Rio Hondo went on to win the Southern Cal Conference.

Two talented quarterbacks will be in action this evening, Dale Bunn for the Owls and Chip Malhiot for the Roadrunners.

Also in the backfield for Citrus will be Obie Graves and Raymond Butler.

Jefferson, Jaguars beat Gladstone, 12-7

By DAN JOHNS
PB Correspondent

Ever hear of Thomas Jefferson? No, not the third President of the United States — the Ontario High Jaguars' sophomore running back. He was introduced to the Gladiators of Gladstone Friday night an made a lasting impression on the Gladstone squad.

Jefferson rushed for a total of 200 yards on 25 carries and scored two touchdowns in helping Ontario down Gladstone, 12-7.

The contest looked like it was going to be Ontario al the way in the early going and there was little for the Gladiator fans to cheer about.

But late in the third quarter, Gladstone came alive. Quarterback Bob Alvarez hit tight end Mike Moheit for a first down and then found Scott Lucero in the open for nine yards as the third quarter ended.

Alvarez, still going to the air, hit Moheit again this time for 12 yards putting Gladstone in good scoring position.

However, George Vallejo spoiled things for the visitors by intercepting Alvarez' next try, turning the ball over to the Jaguars four plays later. The Glads had the ball back. After two incompletions, Alvarez, at his own 27 hit flanker Jim Joyce on the 50-yard line and the speedy Gladiator raced for the score.

Ontario's two touchdowns came on runs of 5 and 2 yards by Jefferson. Ontario had 310 yards total offense while Gladstone had 214.

Bonita rolls to 35-26 win

Royal Oak fumbled the ball away again. (Doyle recovering), on the following series, giving the Bearcats the opportunity to now run out the clock. But it was not to be, for Coggins broke straight up the middle on a quarterback-keeper, high-stepping it 42 yards to paydirty (at 1:36).

"We were just trying to hold on the ball for that last minute," said Coggins. "But (All-Valley center Mark) Malone is so mean in the middle, the hole was there and the rest was easy. I never expected this . . . this is so great."!

Coggins finished as the game's leading rusher, with 90 yards, including three scores and a PAT run. He also passed for 216 yards and two touchdown bombs to Keith Brandt and Rob Hicks.

Brandt hauled in five passes, good for 134 yards and 63-yard score. The 6-foot-2, 175 pounder has now totaled 296 yards on 12 receptions (That's a 24.8 average, folks).

"Our pass-protection was so much better this week," commented Brandt. "Sanford was beautiful — if he'll lay 'em up there, I'll catch them."!

"Isn't this something, do you believe this?", commented Bearcat mentor Lopez. "Look at all those points, I was all ready for a tight, low scoring game, and I get this! These guys really played a football game tonight."

Hicks, who was finally got his chance to prove something this year, was on the receiving end of a pretty 33 yards toss by Coggins in the end zone. "I wasn't really surprised.

In all, the surprising Bearcats rolled up 405 yards in total offense, with 357 coming in the second half.

Ontario C. wins, 32-0

Ontario Christian was the lone local CIF 1A grid squad to win Friday night.

The Knights easily beat Western Christian 32-0 in an Olympic League game, but the other three valley 1A entries all took it on the chin.

Webb was edged by a last-minute field goal, falling to host Aquinas by a 3-0 count in an Arrowhead League contest. In a Christian League encounter, Liberty Christian clobbered Calvary Baptist 62-6. In a non-league matchup, Mary Star of the Sea overpowered La Verne Lutheran by an 35-13 count.

Aquinas' Steve Hague kicked a 29-yard field goal with only 28 seconds left in the game to win it for Riverside squad.

Webb had a pass interception by Bob Galente nullified by a penalty late in the contest, ruining the Gauls' only scoring chance. A roughing the passer infraction on Webb set up the winning FG.

Quarterback Steve Yeager accounted for Lutheran's only scores vs. Mary Star, passing for one TD and running for another.

Pomona 'Cap goes today

Ten length Las Madrinas Handicap victress, Our First Delight, was a surprise entrant in today's $38,200 Pomona Handicap and is among a field of seven named for the closing day feature, highlight of the L.A. County Fair meeting.

Jockey Frank Olivares has been tabbed by trainer Jerry Fanning to ride Our First Delight, who established a track record for a mile and one-sixteenth when demolishing five feminine foes in last Tuesday's Las Madrinas. The explosive four-year-old daughter of First Balcony was timed in 1.42 2/5, fourfifths of a second faster than the previous Pomona mark set in last Saturday's C. B. Afflerbaugh Memorial Stakes by Give'M Time. Our First Delight, who also accounted for the C.T.B.A. Marian Stakes by 20 lengths here last year, was vanned from Pomona to Santa Anita following her Las Madrinas triumph.

UCLA underdog vs. Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eighth-ranked Ohio State, despite last week's home setback to Missouri, rules a one-touchdown favorite today to hand fourth-rated UCLA its first college football loss this fall.

A throng of more than 88,000, the 47th straight sellout in Ohio Stadium, and millions via national television (ABC-TV, 10::50 a.m. PDT) will view the rematch of the 1976 Rose Bowl foes.

"We don't really know how good we are," Terry Donahue, the Bruins' new coach, admitted after runaway decisions over Arizona State, Arizona and the Air Force.

Donahue was an assistant under Dick Vermeil, playing a prominent roll in UCLA's 23-10 torpedoing of the Buckeyes in the Rose Bowl after Ohio State had thundered past the Bruins 41-20 in a nationally televised regular-season contest last season.

The same situation could arise this time. The two rank in the forefront in the Big Ten and Pacific-8 Conferences, whose champions automatically go to the Rose Bowl.

Woody Hayes, Ohio State's coach of 26 seasons, is well aware his team has not lost consecutive home decisions since 1971 when Michigan State and Northwestern turned the trick.

"We'll be very, very positive in what we do," said Hayes. "We've got to go to the field not making these mistakes we've been making."

The Buckeyes, victors over Michigan State and Penn State before losing 22-21 to Missouri, have been penalized almost twice as much as their opponents.

"Some have been earned, some unearned," snapped Hayes. "It could show a lack of experience more than anything else."

Both sides, using the same style of veer option attacks, are explosive.

UCLA averages 480.7 yards a game, second in the nation behind Michigan. Ohio State produces 364.6 a contest. In rushing alone, the Bruins are No. 2 and the Buckeyes No. 5 nationally.

The outcome could boil down to passing, where the Bruins have a decided advantage. UCLA has completed 19 of 36 for 289 yards and two touchdowns. Ohio State is 3 of 13 for 55 air yards and no scores.

"Sure, it bothers me," Hayes says of his team's poor passing. "That's why we worked on it this week. Sooner or later, we'll burn someone."

The ground attacks are proven. UCLA's trio of Wendell Tyler, Theotis Brown and Jeff Dankworth has produced 892 yards so far. Their Ohio State counterparts, Jeff Logan, Pete Johnson and Rod Gerald, have 858 combined yards rushing.

Sturdy Iowa is USC foe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Iowa Coach Bob Commings wanted to build a sturdy defense. University of Southern California Coach John Robinson wanted to build a balanced offense.

Both coaches seem to have done what they set out to; which did the best job will be determined tonight when the Hawkeyes and 13th-ranked Trojans clash in the Coliseum.

Iowa, led by linebacker Dean Moore, is the best in the Big Ten defensively this season, and has allowed just one sustained scoring drive in its three games.

The Hawkeyes' latest triumph was last Saturday's upset of 10th-ranked Penn State, as Moore and Co. held the Nittany Lions to just six points despite three Iowa fumbles in its own territory in the final quarter of the 7-6 victory.

Iowa and USC both have 2-1 records, as the Hawkeyes opened with a 24-6 loss to Illinois and USC was ambushed 46-25 by Missouri in its opener.

While Commings is proud of his defensive unit thus far, he admits the Trojans, a 31-13 victor over Purdue last weekend, will provide an acid test.

"We were up against an excellent passing game at Penn State," Commings said, "yet they didn't hurt us. So either we played well or they had a bad day.

"I'm not sure Illinois and Syracuse offered that much of a challenge. This week we get the ultimate test and we'll get some answers."

The "ultimate test" Commings referred to is primarily in the form of USC Heisman Trophy candidate Ricky Bell, who led the nation in rushing last year and is at the top again this season with 542 yards in three games.

But apparently there's more to worry the Iowa defenders than just Bell.

Trojan quarterback Vince Evans, who drew criticism last season for his poor passing, has been right on target this fall. Evans completed only 31 per cent of his passes in 1975, but is 32 of 48 for 429 yards this year.

"Our balance on offense has really pleased me," USC Coach John Robinson said. "Vince's play has been outstanding."

If the oddsmakers are correct, Bell's running and Evans' passing will be too much for Iowa's defense.

But Robinson, remembering the loss to Missouri, is hardly confident going into the contest. "We're going to have to get after Iowa," he said. "If we ever allow ourselves to relax, we ought to be taken out and shot at sunrise."

Walnut runs past Saints

Walnut High's cross country team ran past San Dimas, 20-42, Friday at Mt. San Antonio College even though Perry LaMont of the Saints was the individual winner in 10:51.

Cavs edge La Puente

Montclair High's water polo squad nipped La Puente, 18-16, in the Cavalier pool Friday to reverse a two-point setback to La Puente at the recent Riverside Poly Tournament.

Ron Hartman scored nine goals for the Cavs and Eric Whitt added four. Tom Maples and Sam Nisbett accounted for two each and Wyatt Loggins scored one.

Poly shoots for upset

STARKVILLE, Miss. — After going winless against California competition, Cal Poly's football team will undertake the task of trying to upset a Southeastern Conference opponent here this afternoon.

If Poly could pull off a stunning upset over host Mississippi State today, the Broncos would make the national press wire services.

It isn't often when a California school playing on the Division II level gets an opportunity to challenge a member of one of the nation's strongest football conferences but Poly is trying the impossible.

Poly coach Andy Vinci realizes his team is a big underdog in the 11:30 a.m. (PDT) contest but the optimistic mentor feels his team may surprise a few people.

"We're capable of upsetting them," Vinci said about Poly's chances. "When we play better people, we seem to play better."

Poly takes a disappointing 0-2-1 season record into today's game while Mississippi State is 2-1.

Both teams are coming off defeats last week but there are big differences. Poly fell to San Francisco State, 22-19, when the Gators rallied for 15 points in the fourth quarter while Mississippi State fell to Florida, 34-30, in a SEC shootout.

It's hard to tell if the host Bulldogs will take their California visitors seriously but coach Bob Tyler is trying to inspire his troops.

"We have to put up a good defensive effort," Tyler said. "Cal Poly has the best balanced offense we have faced yet this season. Cal Poly can run or pass equally well."

Poly's defense will have a rough test battling Mississippi's Wishbone offense. State has ripped three opponents for 1,051 yards, an average of 350.3 per game, this season.

Fullback Dennis Johnson leads the Bulldogs with 250 yards on 48 carries while halfback Walter Packer, who has 2,135 career yards, has accounted for 128 on only 20 carries including a 71-yard gallop against Florida for a touchdown.

Mississippi State doesn't pass much as evidenced by only 79.3 yards per game.

In fact, Poly's Teddy Myles has caught more passes, 15, than the entire Mississippi State team with 11.

Vinci will be starting his regular offensive unit headed by quarterback Leo Costa. The rest of the backfield will consist of halfback Ron Jones and fullback Brent Partridge. Lonnie Carr will be bank at his flanker's spot with Myles at split end and Jay Johnson at tight end.

Mississippi State is hoping to get a large crowd for today's Homecoming game at Scott Field (capacity 35,000) and Vinci is also delighted by the prospect.

"It's going to be fun for our team to play in a place like this," Vinci said "This is what college football is all about."

Mississippi State opened its season by beating North Texas State, 7-0, and Louisville, 30-21. Poly stays on the road next week in visiting North Texas at Denton.

Besides everything else, Poly has one other Bulldog to worry about. Kicker Kinney Jordan, who has made all six extra points and five of six field goals, owns the MSU career record for field goals with 18 in two seasons after booting 13 in two years at Tampa before that school dropped the sport.

Poly will be the first Pacific Coast school to play Mississippi State on the gridiron since the Bulldogs played San Francisco in 1974.

The Broncs are certainly anxious to do much better here in the center of Dixie than its neighbor, Cal State Fullerton, did last year.

Stags entertain Cal Lutheran

Sagehens host Leos tonight

All three local SCIAC teams will be playing at home or near home this afternoon or tonight.

Claremont-Mudd hosts Cal Lutheran at 1:30 p.m. La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer clash at Alumni Field at 7:30 p.m.

The Leopards-Sagehens game will not count on the conference schedule. Conference play begins Oct. 23 and the SCIAC contest between the two schools is Nov. 6 at La Verne.

Tonight's game pits a pair of unbeaten teams against each other. The Leos won their opener at Whittier last week, 7-6 (Another non conference game with a conference foe).

Meanwhile the 'Hens were running over Christian Heritage, 55-0.

"I don't think this will be a high scoring game," P-P coach Walt Ambord said. "We're improved defensively this year and La Verne is always a good defensive team. Defense will be a prime factor."

La Verne coach Roland Ortmayer seemed inclined to agree.

"I don't know if their passing game will be effective or not," Ortmayer mused. "If it is they'll get to us. We didn't score a lot of points last week, but I wasn't disappointed in our offense last week.

"We've got to be more consistent. If the Ortmayer offense moves at all the first game, it's exciting to us. I don't like for us to feel like we've got it all together the first three or four weeks anyway.

"I do think our passing game will improve," he continued. "And I know our kicking game HAS to improve. Our kickoffs don't go deep enough. Last week our field goal kicker, Mario Torres, was hurt in a soccer game Wednesday and wasn't in top shape Saturday or we might have tried a field goal earlier."

Ortmayer will have a couple of players available this week that he didn't have last week.

Dean Buttress, a 6-4, 230-pounder from L.A. Valley JC, is now eligible and will start at right offensive tackle. Ralph Valadez, a two-year starter for Ben Hines' baseball team, has looked good in practice and will see action in the offensive backfield.

"We'll probably have a little different alignment," Ortmayer revealed. "Valadez will be a slotback sometimes and a halfback other times."

"I looked at last year's films," Ambord said, "and we weren't that bad last year. Our punting game was terrible. When you don't have much in the way of material, the thing you do need is a good kicking game. Our punting last year was terrible."

Ambord has La Verne transfer Dennis Tucker and veteran Warren Person punting this year and soccer style placekicker Dave Zenger for field goals.

"This year we can hit inside the 29-yard line," said Ambord.

In the afternoon game, C-M will be taking on one of the top NAIA teams in the country last year. The Kingsmen, 1-1, slipped by Redlands, 13-7, last week while the Stags were nipped by St. Mary's, 17-16.

"I don't think Cal Lutheran has put it together yet," said C-M coach John Zinda. "They have 27 junior college transfers. When they do get it together they will be a formidable team. I just hope they don't do it this afternoon. "Our problem will be to try to contain their quarterback, John Kindred. He was the backup for Bill Wilson for two years and he has to know their offense well."

Girl netters enjoy wins

Upland High's girls' tennis team downed Montclair Thursday in the San Antonio League opener for both teams while Bonita beat Chino in a non-league affair.

The Highlander varsity squad won 6-0 while the JV team also tossed a blank, 5-0. Varsity winners for Upland were Carol Moser (10-1), Julie Lewis (10-1) and Karen Schneider (10-3) and the doubles teams of Linda McKeon and Mug Ogg (10-2), Cheryl Emrish and Patty Kuchan (10-0) and Nan Fowler and Beth Bracey (10-1).

Upland, 5-0 on the year, will visit Claremont Thursday at 2:45 p.m. while Montclair travels to Ganesha at 3 p.m. the same day.

Bonita downed Chino, 10-4, by winning six singles matches and four doubles. Singles winners were Kathy Branam, Mary Boyd, Debbie Sandoval, Lillie Bakhit, Robin Edwards and a forfeit.

Pomona team tops Riverside

Pomona won six of the nine double matches in the morning and all six triples played in the afternoon for a plus score of 72 to beat Riverside in the first match of the Citrus Belt Lawn Bowling League.

The Pomona team will host Sun City Thursday at its Arrow Highway greens located next to the Palomares Adobe.

TV show to film at Pomona G.P.

The pilot for a new television program will be filmed at the Pomona Grand Prix Driving Course Tuesday.

Gates will close at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the course located at 200 S. East End Ave. Admission is free.

The new show will be called Celebrity Racing and will feature celebrities driving special cars and trying to establish the fastest total time in three heats.

Bob Crane of the TV series Hogan's Heroes, Marty Allen and Barbara Feldon (agent 99 in Get Smart) will drive a different car in each heat in order to equalize any differences in cars.

They'll be racing for contestants picked from the audience. As a bonus, the contestant represented by the winner will have an opportunity to drive and try to beat the winner's time.

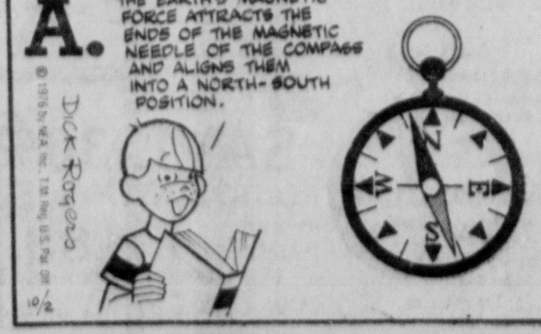
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DOES A POCKET COMPASS WORK?"

SCOTT SOUSA
TAUNTON, MA

A. THE EARTH'S MAGNETIC FORCE ATTRACTS THE ENDS OF THE MAGNETIC NEEDLE OF THE COMPASS AND ALIGNS THEM INTO A NORTH-SOUTH POSITION.



A person lost in the woods may walk in circles unless he has a compass to guide him.

A pocket compass tells direction becuase its needle is a small magnet. It is supported on a pivot so that it can turn freely to indicate north.

The compass points northward because the earth itself is a huge magnet. Its magnetic force attracts the ends of the magnetic needle of the compass and aligns them into a north-south position.

But while the compass points in a northerly direction, it doesn't point straight to the North Pole.

In the Northern Hemisphere, all magnetic compasses point in the direction of the earth's north magnetic pole, which is located several hundred miles south of the actual North Pole.

But most of us live so far from both the north magnetic pole and the true North Pole that is seems the compass needle points north.

In some parts of Greenland, the compass needle points almost west.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper).

PEANUTS

I don't understand the other pupils in this school . .

I'm the only one who ever gets out here, and jumps these hurdles . . .

They watch their dogs jump while they just stand around . . .

I'm surprised the school allows lazy students, like that to have pets . . .

Attention to world affairs

Ford, Carter debate tactics

By The Associated Press

Their debate on foreign policy is less than a week away, and Jimmy Carter and President Ford are using different tactics to turn attention toward their stands on world affairs.

Carter, continuing a strategy that has had him moving briskly about the country, was in the Northeast on Thursday, where he attacked Ford's policies in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, Ford continued his strategy of remaining at home in Washington where he was meeting foreign ministers at the White House.

But Ford's problems with a federal investigation into his congressional campaign finances kept surfacing. Ford had been under pressure from Carter and from Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale to meet with reporters and answer questions about the special prosecutor's probe of records of the GOP organization in Ford's home district in Michigan.

So at a quickly called news conference Thursday, Ford vowed to reporters that he had never diverted any campaign funds to his personal use and expressed hope that the Watergate special prosecutor would complete his investigation quickly.

Ford said "no money ever went to me personally" from his political campaigns.

Carter, campaigning in Boston, said he was willing to accept Ford's statement and, as far as he was concerned, the matter was closed.

But late Thursday, the Justice Department said it was Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and other top department officials who told the Watergate special prosecutor there were allegations involving campaign money irregularities in Ford's home congressional district. That started the special prosecutor's probe.

Ford's running mate, Sen. Bob Dole, had been attributing the special prosecutor's investigation to political motives.

But a Justice Department spokesman said the allegation was made to the FBI by an informant and that the FBI referred the matter to Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler. It was Tyler who sent the matter in July to Watergate special prosecutor Charles Ruff.

The department spokesman said Tyler at the time was unsure whether the allegations involved Ford.

"The allegation was that there might have been some violation of the election laws, some laundering of money that was used as contributions in Kent County or Grand Rapids," Tyler said, according to the spokesman.

Published reports have said the unidentified informant told the FBI that Ford illegally diverted campaign funds to his own use. The reports say the money was contributed by maritime unions to the Kent County GOP organization and then was funneled secretly to Ford.

At his news conference Thursday, Ford also was asked about reports that he accepted golfing weekends from four major corporations while he was a congressman. He said he saw nothing improper about accepting the corporate hospitality.

Carter, touring the Northeast, was critical of Ford's reliance on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and on the tone of U.S. foreign policy under Ford.

In Portland, Maine, he said Ford had abdicated his foreign policy duty to Kissinger and that U.S. policy now "is conducted in secret by one person who is not the president and who has no regard ... for morality."

In Boston, Carter rapped the sale of offensive missiles to Saudi Arabia and Ford's approach to the Arab boycott of U.S. firms that do business with Israel. He said if he is president an oil embargo by Saudi Arabia or other oil-producers will bring retaliation in the form of an embargo on sales of all U.S. goods to that country.

FCC reps countering probe foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission is countering claims that higher telephone rates will be needed if communications industry competition continues with assertions that telephone users may have been paying too much for service.

FCC Chairman Richard E. Wiley defended agency decisions Thursday which have permitted some industry competition, especially for equipment and such private line services as satellite transmissions.

But he also answered statements by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. president John D. DeButts, who said earlier in the week that higher rates would result if competition was permitted to continue.

Wiley said there is evidence that "telephone users have been paying too much for service" because they are, in effect, subsidizing private line rates.

The FCC chairman and other witnesses testified about an AT&T-backed bill that would tighten the corporation's monopoly powers in the communications industry and make it immune from antitrust legislation. It was the third and final day in which the communications subcommittee heard testimony on the subject.

The legislation will be put over to the next session of Congress, when new and longer hearings are likely to be held.

DeButts had acknowledged that telephone customers, especially those in rural areas, receive subsidies since proportionately higher prices are charged for other nontelephone services. He reasoned that as revenue is reduced in these other services because of competition, rates will have to go up to telephone users.

But Wiley offered a different view, especially of the business-oriented private line charges. He said the FCC has ordered Bell Telephone to increase its rates for private line services so they will cover costs.

"Our view is that it is the telephone industry which has continued to charge less than their full cost of providing these services, and to make up the difference through higher charges to the ordinary ratepayer," he added.

Alfred E. Kahn, chairman of the New York Public Service Commission, described the legislation as an "abomination," saying more competition is good for business and the consumer.

The director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, Thomas J. Houser, said he knows of no proof that competition will push up telephone rates. But special consideration should be given to the unique problems of small, independent telephone companies, he said.

The lines between telephone service and other forms of communication have been blurred because of technology's rapid growth, Houser stated. Congress should review and revamp the nation's communications policies, he added.

Glenn E. Watts, president of Communications Workers of America, said the union was not supporting any particular bill.

In name only

NEW YORK (AP) — How do you name one of the world's biggest offshore oil developments?

Geologists working on Phillips Petroleum Co.'s project in the Norwegian sector of the North Sea found a solution.

Each sector was assigned a letter. As maps were developed, names coded to each letter were required. The geologists decided to use the name of a fish or shellfish for each letter, starting with amberjack, bass, cod, etc.

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

Have you ever wondered why so many Pomonans are forever sighing for the good old days? Well, why shouldn't they? Let's go back 68 years and take a look at some of the benefits those good old days provided.

For one thing, in the year 1908 the Palace Market, 250 W. Second St., was advertising: "We will have some more of those nice juicy 8 cent Pot Roasts on sale again Saturday." At L.W. Heath's Quality Grocery, a two-pound can of oysters was selling for 25 cents. And on New Year's Day, 1909, a round trip ticket between Pomona and Pasadena to the Tournament of Roses via the Salt Lake Railway was selling for $1.

What was more, 1908 was the year that the first car of rhubarb was shipped from the cold storage warehouse of the Pomona Valley Ice Company to Philadelphia — a milestone in Pomona's economic history which prompted The Progress to predict: "This is the beginning of an important industry in the Pomona Valley, for the product can be grown successfully here."

But in light of some of today's problems, one of the big reasons we look back to 1908 with nostalgic longing is because in those days the Post Office Department was really giving folks their money's worth. As a special Christmas gift, the Postmaster General that year announced a two cent postage rate from the United States to Germany by direct sea route.

Also, not to be outdone by the Postmaster General, Pomona's Postmaster, Walter M. Avis, in mid December added his own Merry Christmas service bonus.

"The city carriers," he announced, "will make their usual morning collections and deliveries on Christmas Day. The rural carriers will make their regular deliveries and the post office will be open until 10:30 a.m."

All those goodies plus mail deliveries too! No wonder we sometimes sigh for what is not. Anyway you view it, 1908 was a very good year.

A New Haven banjo clock

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: I will appreciate any information and the current value of this New Haven wall clock. It is in excellent condition, both mechanically as well as appearance. A.T.

ANSWER: Your interesting 19th-century banjo clock with eagle finial and reverse painting is worth around $250. The new Haven Clock Company began production at New Haven, Connecticutt, in 1853.

QUESTION: Can you estimate the value of the lamp shown I have? It is 18 inches high and in good working condition. Its pyramid-like metal and glass shade — panels shade from green to yellow — are perfect and original. The base is oak and needs refinished. It is made of four wooden panels.

We inherited this lamp several years ago, but it isn't one of our favorite collectibles. Can you give me further information on its origin? I believe the style is Mission. Is this correct? Mrs. J.C.S.

ANSWER: Yes, and these lamps are presently selling for about $150-$165. Since your lamp is unmarked, it is not possible to determine its maker.

QUESTION: Your recent comments on an old copper apple butter kettle were of interest to me. We have a miniature example that has a small iron bail handle and a dovetailed bottom. It was my grandfathers and I'm 78. This small kettle is approximately 6½ inches in diameter and stands 4¾ inches high. Would you estimate its value? It has been well taken care of, but needs to be polished. K.E.

ANSWER: Your small copper kettle is worth about $50.

Stamps in the news

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

For hundreds of years, the Zuyderzee has been a continuing reclamation project for the people of The Netherlands — and work is still in progress. To hail the "Zuyderzee Project" and its importance to the Dutch population, that nation has issued two new stamps emphasizing the themes of land reclamation and urbanization.

How important is the Zuyderzee Project? Without the protection of dams, dunes and dykes, large parts of the country would be unfit for living because of the constant risk of flooding. So the Dutch have had to reclaim their land from the water bit by bit.

Urbanization also has emerged as a crucial problem with living space at a premium in this small nation. Thus the project includes the development of residential towns in suburban areas to absorb residents from crowded cities such as Amsterdam.

One of the new stamps shows a sailboat superimposed over an aerial view of the city. The second stamp illustrates a duck flying over the Zuyderzee.

Also issued by The Netherlands is a stamp to mark the 75th anniversary of The Netherlands Printers Organization and one honoring the 50th anniversary of The Netherlands Anti-Rheumatism Assn., reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

All of these new stamps from The Netherlands will soon be available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

Post Offices with Stamp Collecting Centers — and there are some 10,000 throughout the country — are now offering packages of three "Stamp Collecting Kits" or three "Souvenir Mint Sets" at a reduced price, says the U.S. Postal Service in Washington.

Available are the Animal Kingdom, Birds and Butterflies, and Masterworks Stamp Collecting Kits for $2 each. The 1972 and 1973 mint sets are priced at $3 each. The 1974 mint sets can be had for $3.50.

This special price applies only when the package of three items is purchased at the Stamp Collecting Centers. It does not apply to mail orders.

Each of the topical collecting kits contains a 20-page album, stamps and hinges, plus a 32-page booklet entitled "The ABC's of Stamp Collecting." The Animal Kingdom and Masterwork Kits each contain one mint stamp and 42 used stamps. The Birds and Butterflies Kit has 42 used stamps.

These are excellent buys for collectors since the sets are all valued at over $5 each at present.

To honor the 25th anniversary of Queen Elizabeth II's accession to the throne, 27 colonies and territories will participate in an omnibus series to be issued early next year. Others connected with the Crown are expected to join the group. The new stamps will be in sheets of 50, or two panes of 25. Many will have first day covers.

A couple of years ago, the Montana Bicentennial Administration started to prepare a series of commemorative covers which would pictorially depict some of the state's colorful history. The 10 covers are now available with designs showing Fort Benton, Lewis and Clark, Chief Joseph, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, the Homestead Act and the Custer Centennial. Collectors who are interested in obtaining the set of 10 covers should send $11.30 (postpaid) to Montana Bicentennial Administration, Capitol Station, Helena, Mont. 59601.

New technology aids colleges at Claremont

"What's a nice librarian like you doing mixed up with computers, data processing equipment, cathode ray tube terminals and other electronic equipment?" I asked Patrick T. Barkey, director of libraries of the Claremont Colleges.

The answer was increased efficiency of the libraries, vastly greater bibliographic resources and lower costs. A hard-to-beat combination. By the adaptation of sophisticated technological equipment, the Claremont Colleges libraries have opened to students, faculty and visiting scholars a Mother Lode that includes more than 2½ million works, from the Library of Congress to the Pomona Public Library, and cut its "unit costs" by 30 per cent in the past two years.

Michigan-born Barkey, a graduate of Pomona College and the University of Michigan, was the spark plug behind the program. A veteran of half a dozen academic libraries, from Notre Dame to the University of Toledo, Barkey is a dynamic, articulate and humorous man, at ease with millionaire donors and jeans-clad college students. In 1974 he took over as director of libraries — Honnold, Dennison, Seeley Mudd, Sprague and the science libraries of Pomona College.

Barkey was in on the birth of the Ohio College Library Center (OCLC) in 1967 when 47 colleges and universities in the Buckeye State linked their libraries by computer to share their resources, cut the sky-high costs of cataloguing and filing, and establish efficient inter-library loans. With their own collections and 125,000 standardized entries from the Library of Congress, the little intra-state network emerged as a major bibliographical resource in the world.

Four things were necessary, Barkey said, for this NBC of libraries to come about — and they all did. There had to be a standardization of format for information about the books, authors and publishers; there had to be a drop in costs of computer equipment; there had to be a national telephone data network at reasonable cost, and there had to be an organization to put it all together. This was the non-profit OCLC, of which Barkey has been a board member.

Scholars from all over the world utilize the Rare Book Room of Honnold Library.

ON THE COVER

Patrick T. Barkey, director of libraries of the Claremont Colleges, shown standing in front of Honnold Library, has employed sophisticated technology to increase efficiency, lower operating costs and expand the bibliographical resources of the libraries. Honnold has more than one million volumes and adds 25,000 each year.

College libraries

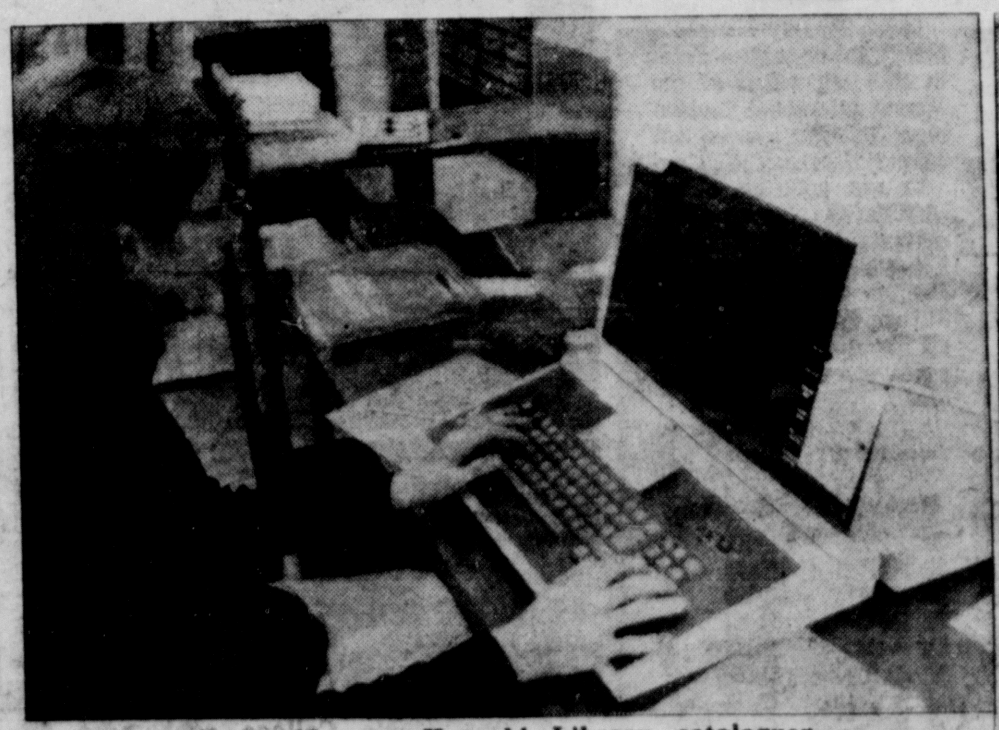
The program spread like crab grass. Other universities clamored for admittance; regions petitioned; public libraries asked to be included. Honnold was the first of the academic libraries in the West to join the network — there are now 75 colleges. The Pomona Public Library was the first non-academic library in the West to join — there are now 950. (Honnold has been designated Western Service Center of the organization.)

"It had to happen," Barkey said. "We were buried in pieces of paper. Our catalogue took $40,000 a year to maintain and it was difficult to use. A catalogue that represents one million books, as ours does, is a monster. We had created a tool that was falling apart of its own weight." (The library adds 25,000 volumes a year.)

To illustrate the operation of the program, Barkey sat down at one of the $3,700 terminals in Honnold. (There are three at Honnold and one at Sprague and another is on the way for the Pomona science libraries.) He tapped out his Social Security number on the typewriter keyboard, and "Good afternoon" from Columbus, Ohio, appeared in little green letters on the television-like screen. He punched in the title of a random book — "Mass Media" — and in two seconds the small screen was filled with all the data on the work — author, publisher, most recent call for the work, number of pages and a list of all the libraries in the country that have a copy. If he had pressed the "Produce" button, Barkey would have received, in a week, a printed set of card catalogues containing all the date — at a cost of $1.85.

The system has sharply cut costs of cataloguing and card filing, which require the expensive services of professional librarians, reduced the amount of work for the library staff, broadened the scope of the libraries across the nation, and permitted individual libraries to "sort out" vast collections of books long dormant in basements and attics.

When Barkey finished his demonstration, he signed off, but the little screen flashed "Message not clear." He had not completed the required codes. With a grin, he punched "Good afternoon," and all was well with the CRT terminal.



Tania Meyers, Honnold Library cataloguer, operates one of the $3,700 computer terminals.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nearly four years after Bobby Fischer went into seclusion with his world chess championship, the erratic but brilliant gamesman has surfaced with his attempt to win back the title he lost when he refused to defend it.

Fischer hasn't been idle these past four years, but he has shunned all forms of publicity, he has not played any serious chess and his life has been as spartan as before — unpretentious clothes, simple foods and no nightlife, say his friends.

His latest excitement, however, may put him back on the trail he once was on. Fischer is reportedly all set to play the Soviet Union's Anatoly Karpoy for the world title that Karpov was awarded two years ago.

The match, completely unofficial, is scheduled for Manila in the Philippines early next year, and only Fischer's latest demand about a rules scoring change, which the Soviets refused to accept, is holding things up.

"He has not been training with anyone," said a source close to Fischer, "but he has a lot of old books and I presume he is studying. He wants this match with Karpov very much and he's willing to do almost anything to get it."

Earlier this year, Caesars Palace in Las Vegas offered Fischer $250,000 to play a "speed" tournament against six of the world's strongest players. In a speed tournament each player must make all of his moves in each game within five minutes.

Even though chess is considered a sedentary game, Fischer showed his dominance by capturing the unofficial World Blitz Championship in 1970 in such an event.

"I don't think Fischer was really ready to play that kind of chess," said a source close to the negotiations. "I reminded him he hadn't played in some time and he just said, 'Don't worry about that.'"

The match in Las Vegas fell through, however, when Fischer — as expected — demanded $1 million.

Just one year ago, Fischer got involved in a legal dispute when he filed suit in U.S. District Court here against Brad Darrach, a journalist who wrote an unauthorized biography of him.

Darrach was in Iceland in 1972 when Fischer wrestled the title from Boris Spassky, and shortly thereafter released his book "Bobby Fischer Vs. The Rest of the World." Fischer claimed in his suit that the book contains misquotations and errors.

The suit has not come to trial yet, and his friends declined to discuss Fischer at all because of it.

His secretary has been instructed for years not to talk with newsmen and his friends, members of the Fundamentalist Church of God are also reluctant to say

Fischer, who became America's youngest U.S. chess champion at age 14 in 1958, has had periods of hibernation, and one such came in 1968 and 1969 when he rarely played and when he did, frequently lost.

When he set his mind on the world title in early 1970 he came back with an unbelievable amount of energy, scoring smashing triumphs in tournaments at Zagred, Yugoslavia; Buenos Aires; Siegen, W. Germany in the Chess Olympiad, and then his overpowering conquest of the world's 23 top players in the interzonal tournament at Palma de Mallorca.

That put him into the candidates' tournament for the right to meet Spassky and he proceeded to whip Mark Taimanov of the Soviet Union, Bent Larsen of Sweden and Tigran Petrosian of the Soviet Union, losing only one game out of the 21 played.

Karpov earned the right to meet Fischer for the title but when Fischer demanded a rules scoring change, the international federation that rules the games declared a forfeit and ordered the title go to Karpov without a game being played.

"If Fischer beat Karpov, everyone would really know that Karpov is just a paper tiger," said a friend.

Fischer's life in nearby Pasadena has been virtually unchanged since he returned in glory in 1972.

He made some television appearances after winning the title but a number of journalists and television hosts failed to understand his meaning a number of times and he felt he was being mocked instead of cheered, and so dropped out of public view.

Although he had never been a member of the Chuch of God, he had been a virtual ex-officio member by virtue of his close relations with other church members and officials. His personal adviser is a respected member of the church hierarchy.

Fischer has stayed somewhat active, friends say. He still plays tennis and swims to stay fit, still has an enormous appetite, still listens to rock music into the wee hours of the morning and still prefers to play his chess on a tiny pocket set.

Until the match with Karpov became a possibility, he had remained close to home, but in recent weeks has traveled to Spain and then to the Philippines to try to set up the match, which sources have said would guarantee $5 million in prizes.

RELAXED CHESSMAN — Bobby Fischer, former world champion chess player, relaxes at a press conference in Manila recently following his arrival in Manila. He told newsmen he would remain in the Phillipines throughout negotiations for a multi-million dollar match with Soviet world champion Anatoly Karpov.

Another Fischer surprise

Again Bobby Fischer has surprised everyone with a series of unexpected moves.

It all began in July when World Champion Anatoly Karpov publicly expressed his willingness to play a non-title match. Few thought Fischer would respond, but now apparently a match is imminent.

The two titans of chess met a number of times in three different countries including Japan, Spain, and Sweden. All major details have been settled except for the match's starting date, which is probably in five to eight months. The playing site is Manila.

It appears that the event will consist of 30-plus games, played for a total purse of 3.5 to 5 million dollars. According to one report, Karpov will resign his world title if he loses.

Spassky's Moment of Glory

In the position below (SOLVE-IT), Spassky won material by first sacrificing a pawn with 20 . . . P-K5! 21.NxP, NxN; 22.Bxn, and then piling up on the awkwardly placed white pieces on the king file.

Spassky then won in short order.

Dutch student likes U.S. 'very much'

By AMY GUSMAN
Claremont
Correspondent

"Ik heb het erg naar m'n zin in America" is Dutch for "I like it very much so far in America."

Coen (pronounced Coon) Jaeger is expressing his feelings on the country he is visiting this year as an AFS exchange student.

Coen is from Sneek, Holland, a rural town 150 miles from Amsterdam. In addition to his parents he has two brothers, Biet, 16, and Joost, 14, and a sister, Freida, 14.

Currently Coen is attending Claremont High School as a senior even though he already has completed high school in Holland.

He is taking subjects he didn't have time to take at home such as Spanish, U.S. Government, public speaking, science fiction and photography, one of his favorite hobbies.

An English teacher at Coeh's high school (he studied English six years and speaks the language fluently) had talked about the United States in reference to college. Coen became interested in traveling to America.

He thought the American Field Service was a good organization to join for that purpose, since he could go to high school instead of college, and have lots of leisure time.

He has found some differences in lifestyles. Breakfasts here are larger. "We have pancakes for dinner in Holland," he said.

He is used to having a large mid-day meal.

In general, he feels everything in America is bigger, the roads and freeways, the cars and, he observes, people eat more. "They really eat a lot here," he said.

Schools are different, too. In Sneek he attended a six-year college prep school where his main interest was science. He was quite surprised at the long list of classes he could choose from at Claremont High.

The schools in Holland, he said, offer only about 15 subjects.

Coen anticipates American schools will generally be easier than the schools in Holland and he finds that CHS offers more outside activities.

A sandy blond with steel rimmed glasses, Coen dresses in jeans and shirt, much like any 18-year-old American.

"C'est Moi" will be directed by Miss Kathy Hall, Laureate moderator and Mrs. Lu Cronin, social director. Julie Robson, editor of the Laureate, will be the coordinator of the event. Mrs. JoAnn Fitzgibbons, a director of modeling and fashion in the Pomona Valley, will be the commentator.

Lutheran students score in pizza sale

By Barbara H. Thrasher
Lutheran Correspondent

Lutheran High School La Verne student body of 176 students succeeded in selling more than 1,200 pizzas during the past two weeks to raise money for an athletic program

The fund-raising drive insures a full program in all sports for both boys and girls this school year.

The schedule of the athletic programs is "hectic" the students agree.

Teams are called "Trojans" and are being coached by John Rode and Irene Briones.

The money raised by the students will be used to purchase equipment and pay transportation costs for students who participate in away-from-home events.

Models who disrobe to be paid by school

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Nude models working in art classes in the Sonoma Valley Unified School District henceforth will be paid $4 an hour by the district.

That was decided this week in a 3-1 vote by district trustees, which held that it was properly the district's responsibility to pay the models.

"If it is policy to have models, then we have to make just compensation," said Assistant Superintendent Alfred Lokka. The board also decided to pay draped or clothed models $2.50 an hour

Trustee Mitch Mulan was the lone dissenter in the vote. He has consistently opposed having nude persons working on the campus.

Teens to participate in Miss Calif. contest

Official state finals of the Miss California International Teen State Finals will be held Jan. 14-16 in Anaheim.

Girls between 14 and 18, who have not reached their 19th birthday by Dec. 31, 1977, may enter.

This competition is held in association with the Miss International Teen USA Pageant.

The primary purpose of the nationwide teen pageant is to recognize and honor outstanding teenagers for scholastic achievement, school and community leadership and to promote patriotism and develop international understanding.

Girls participate in the pageant's essay competition and the International Education Scholarship Program.

Contestants are judged on scholarship, leadership, personality and appearance. There is no swimsuit competition.

Finalists will be required to deliver a 100-word essay on the pageant's essay theme, "Our American Heritage of Freedom." Winners will receive recognition and cash awards at state and national finals.

This is the only teen pageant that invites Foreign Exchange students to participate as essay finalists. They are asked to write on "How My Year of Living in America Enhanced My Life, Increased My Learning and Broadened My Horizons."

Winners will be honored guests of the pageant and receive recognition and cash awards.

Each state winner will receive an expense-paid trip to national finals in Washington, D.C., in August 1977.

State winners will be awarded a nine-day spring Foreign Study League, Inc., travel study tour scholarship to London, Amsterdam and Paris.

The national winner will participate in the tour as the pageant's official teen ambassadress.

Girls interested in entering the competition may obtain additional information by writing Miss International Teen USA Pageant and Scholarship Foundation, National Headquarters, P.O. Box 2423, Anaheim 92804.

Six Bonita girls at drill camp

By KAREN JOHNSON
Bonita Correspondent

This past summer, six members of the Bonita High School drill team attended summer camp in Santa Barbara near the University of California.

Micci Clark, in her third year as captain of the drill team, Patti Dunn, Colleen Herman, Karen Vaszil, and co-captains Damita Hayden and Lynda Tucker attended. They each enrolled in three classes, each designed to teach a different routine. They captured 15 out of a possible 18 superior blue ribbons, and three excellent red ribbons.

After their evaluation, they were awarded a special trophy for their achievement.

Under instructors from all over the United States, including Miss Drill Team USA 1975 and Miss Drill Team California 1976, they learned a variety of new techniques and routines.

The school's first flag squad accompanied the drill team members, along with their adviser, Carol Andrich. The flag squad consists of Barbara Escandon, who is captain, Laura Davis, Sherill Deardorff, Carrie Morrison, Laurie Johnson, and Roberta Tracy.

Both groups will be performing at football games, basketball games, and school rallies.

PCHS sets Sunday ice cream social

By SUSAN BERGMANN
Pomona Catholic

Pomona Catholic High School is holding its annual ice cream social Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. The theme for this year's social is "Fantasy on Parade." Each of the four classes was delegated a job.

Following tradition, the seniors are in charge of entertainment. There will be singing and dancing, plus contests and skits. The freshmen have worked hard to make kiddieland a fun place for children to play in. The sophomores have painted the decorations, and the juniors will be serving ice cream, pie and cake.

Every family in school is bringing a homemade pie or cake. The price is 75 cents per person or $3 per family.

RIGHT TO LIFE

From Oct. 4-8, Pomona Catholic High School will be celebrating Right to Life Week.

The Service Club will be sponsoring an assembly on Wednesday. A movie will be shown titled — "Is the 11-59 Late Tonight?"

After the movie, there will be a discussion period, then a short prayer service.

During the entire week, the students will be collecting baby clothes, maternity clothes, and other articles for the "Right to Life" cause.

Alta Loma holding car rally tonight

Alta Loma High School will hold its first car rally of the school year tonight on the campus west parking lot.

It will begin at 7 p.m. under sponsorship of the junior class. Cost will be $2.50 per entry.

Students and their guests will follow a route from the school. Those in charge are junior class president Kim Moore, vice president Ralph Ornelas, secretary Kathy McCarson, treasurer Barbi Lubecki, ad manager Melissa Seidel, and social coordinator Janelle Peterson.

Proceeds will be used later to pay costs of the junior prom.

CAR WASH

Members of the senior class at Alta Loma High School will hold a car wash today from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the A-1 Shell Station on Foothill Boulevard in Cucamonga.

Cost will be $1 for a car and $2 for a van. Proceeds will be used later in the year to finance senior activities.

Students in charge are senior class president Pat Warren, vice president Raul Ledesma, secretary Kim Queen, treasurer Susan Trudel, ad manager Laura Cousins and social coordinator Valerie Reckert.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Students at Alta Loma High School have been informed by Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., that application forms for scholarships to be awarded for 1977-78 by the California State Student Aid Commission are available at his Ontario office.

Applications for grants must be postmarked no later than Dec. 4.

The office address is 1063 W. Sixth St., Suite 102. The telephone number is 983-3566.

Students, or their parents, interested in additional information regarding the grants may call a school counselor Monday through Friday between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 987-2582.

Alta Loma Junior High

Reading about the American governmental process is not nearly as exciting as seeing it in action, according to a group of students at Alta Loma Junior High School.

Raymond Sarrio, their American government teacher, recently opened the doors of his classroom to Tamara J. Wolfenbarger, a candidate for the Assembly.

Mrs. Wolfenbarger talked about her campaign and answered questions.

"It was really interesting to hear what a candidate had to say," said Tracy Wagers, a seventh grader.

Before the Nov. 2 election, the incumbent, Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-66th Dist., will address the students.

Pomona High trys computer system

By JOHN MANGRICH
with Roland Salvato
Pomona Correspondent

A new computerized scheduling system is the reason for faster student placement this year at Pomona High School.

With the system, student and class organization time is cut in half; normally the process has taken as long as six weeks.

The computerized system is being used as a result of the Pomona Unified School District's cutting down the amount of school time allowed to schedule students. Students can now be scheduled during the summer and be ready to enter classes immediately with the opening of school.

The system is owned by the Claremont Unified School District, that purchased it originally from the Newport-Mesa School District. Claremont subcontracts computer work for several school districts.

The previous system at Pomona High, using "Scramble Days", resulted in many problems because about 20 percent of the students failed to preplan correctly.

The new system allows scheduling to be controlled by a faculty member who is able to resolve conflicts with the aid of a "conflict matrix" printed by a computer.

Students like the new system better because it takes less of their time and allows them to get a suitable schedule.

'Doozy' winter

Just can't trust the moon

HELEN, Ga. (AP) — You just can't trust the moon for predicting weather now that astronauts have been messing around with it, say a couple of Georgia mountain men.

"I used to rely on the moon pretty good, but they done knocked some chunks out of it and they might even have parked some junk cars on it. You just don't know," said Paul Westmoreland, who's spent his 78 years in the north Georgia mountains.

All the other signs, though, point to "a doozy" of a winter in north Georgia, he said.

"It looks like a long, hard winter to me. The shuck is thick on the corn and the cattle have heavier coats than usual," he said, adding that even hornets are building better protected nests higher than usual.

Harley Brady, 62, of nearby Cleveland, disagrees with Westmoreland about the hornets as a sign of hard winter, but he did say the moon has been a problem since the astronauts tromped on it and brought chunks back with them.

Dee Dee Bridgewater

Dee Dee has another debut

By STAN MIESES

We're happy to report the recording debut of one of the most versatile and attractive singers captured on vinyl recently.

Dee Dee Bridgewater, who gained recognition as both singer and actress in her Tony Award winning role in "The Wiz," has given us a chance to stretch out with her, and the result is most pleasurable.

It wasn't easy to record the Bridgewater style. It took Dee Dee several years to land on Broadway in small jazz clubs, fronting big bands like the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Orchestra, and her vocal style, energy, and range put her in a class with a young Ella or Sarah Vaughn. In fact, this year, the Playboy annual jazz poll placed her in the top five, ahead even of Roberta Flack. But the record company, sensing the great commercial potential of a marriage between Bridgewater's talents and current musical trends, put together a selection of r&b and disco material that's lively and smooth at the same time, and still recognizably Bridgewater.

"Goind Through the Motions," a song about empty love, is destined to be a hit single, something Ella didn't have to worry about when she was 25, but that's the business today. In any case, it's a good song. So are both versions of "My Prayer."

Duo pianists set for UCLA concerts

Pianists Anthony and Joseph Paratore, the first American duo ever to win a major international competition, will appear in concert Nov. 5, at 8:30 p.m. in UCLA's Royce Hall. The performance is the second event in the Art of the Keyboard series.

Born in Boston to a musical Italian-American family, Anthony Paratore and his younger brother Joseph both attended Boston University and later, Juilliard School of Music, where their teacher, the famed Rosina Lhevinne, suggested they play as a team. According to Mme. Lhevinne, "their unity in playing makes an impression that they are breathing together."

The brothers Paratore made their New York debut in 1973 on the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Young Artists Series. Encouraged by their success, the two brothers headed for Munich to participate in the International Music Competition.

Hobbyist sees career reflected in glass works

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — An interest that developed during a college chemistry course and led Tom Andert to request an independent study course in glassblowing may lead him to a career as a glassblower in the scientific field.

The 22-year-old recent graduate of Albion College began working with glass as part of a regular course in physical chemistry taught by Dr. Dan Steffenson, associate professor of chemistry. According to Steffenson, most large laboratories employ a fulltime glassblower to create the unusual hardware needed for particular experiments.

"But a chemist really needs to be able to do some basic glassblowing techniques for himself," he says, "so I teach them to make a t-joint, straight joint and a right angle."

At the end of the course Andert expressed an interest in doing a directed study in glassblowing His proposal was approved by Steffenson and Dr. Jack Crump, department chairman.

"What I like about glassblowing is that what looks like a simple apparatus takes time and skill to put together," Andert says. "It's really more an art than a science."

After mastering other skills, he constructed a manometer, an instrument used for measuring the pressure of gases and vapors, for the department. He learned to repair a vacuum system and has made a condenser.

Andert had some instruction from Steffenson, but also taught himself techniques from a book on scientific glassblowing he found in the Albion College library, which was also a source for his research into the history of glassmaking.

"Glass is really a very viscous liquid," he explains. "That's why old glass windows are thicker at the bottom. Modern glass has chemicals added to stiffen it."

In the glassblowing shop in the Norris Science Center, Andert demonstrated the technique for making a flange on the end of a narrow Pyrex tube so that it can be connected to another glass instrument.

"You need a temperature of 1,600 degrees to melt Pyrex," he says. "First you 'pull a point.' That means heating a point on the tube until it becomes molten, then pulling the ends apart. The idea is to get the point right in the center."

He breaks off the glass thread that connects the tubes and puts the closed end of one into the flame. When it is pink, he carefully blows into it. The molten spot bulges slightly, like a blister and suddenly bursts out into a large irregular bubble. The thin glass of the bubble cools almost immediately, and he breaks it off from the tube. A metal file is used to smooth the edges of the new opening.

Steffenson notes that the goals of a scientific glassblower are both functional and aesthetic. "You make an apparatus that works, and you do it so that it doesn't look handmade."

Andert, who has "thought about" becoming a professional glassblower but says "I need to find out more about it first," went to work after graduation for a company that makes instruments to test steel, and which has its own glassblowing shop.

He and his father, Joseph Andert, have been rock hounders, antique collectors and model builders. Currently the senior Andert is building miniature brass cannons from blueprints. Tom Andert designs and builds space models. The two do their own tooling.

Opening lead — A ♠

South's jump for four spades was definitely an overbid, but one of those overbids that everyone makes from time to time.

West doubled and started proceedings by playing the ace and five of spades. East produced the eight so South who had dropped his nine of spades at trick one was forced to win in his own hand.

South could still get to dummy with a trump to take the heart finesse, but that would leave him no way to ruff his last heart. So, South decided to try to get the defenders to help him out. He cashed the ace and king of clubs and led the queen of diamonds. East was in with the king and in trouble.

He cashed his queen of clubs. If South had ruffed, South would have been dead, but South discarded his deuce of diamonds.

East could not lead another club. That would establish a club in dummy. He could not lead his ace of diamonds. That would set up dummy's jack. He did his best by leading a heart. This enabled South to finesse his queen, cash the ace, ruff his last heart and win the rubber.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ontario reader wants to know why, when the opening leader holds a suit headed by ace-king, he leads the king rather than the ace.

There really is no good reason except that this has been the standard lead since the day of whist. There just isn't any important reason to change although some experts have.

. . . Soviet magician recalls career of prestidigitation

MOSCOW (AP) — He has walked on fire, swallowed swords and drunk molten iron, but The Great Longo says the most difficult feat of his long career was taming cockroaches.

At the age of 105, Dmitri Ivanovich Longo is alert but bedridden, his face shrunken behind a magnificent gray beard.

It is many years since he astonished the world by training cockroaches to swing on swings, open tiny newspapers, and rush at his command to a miniature table where they sat in tiny chairs and ate from tiny dishes.

Longo, who billed himself as the only man ever to tame cockroaches, says such men as Thomas Edison, Leo Tolstoy and Anton Chekhov were envious of his secrets and longed to learn his skills.

A magician, dervish and snake charmer advertised as The Great Longo, he performed from the 1880s to the 1940s, traveling through the United States and Canada as well as through Russia.

Longo's story comes from an interview with the newspaper Bakinsky Rabochy, and there is no way of confirming much of what he says as he looks back over his 105 years.

Longo says he was born in the Caucasus republic of Azerbaidzhan, near Iran, and was sent to live with his grandfather in Moscow when he was 7 years old.

Four years later he ran away "to live with Indians and pirates," but got no farther than Moscow's busy central market, where he was taken under the wing of an Italian magician named August Antonelli.

Soon the boy was walking on red-hot coals and on the points of sharpened swords.

He learned a magic trick by which he says he made a human embryo appear in a beaker of clear liquid, and grow before the astonished eyes of his audience into a smiling year-old baby.

But Longo was still looking for Indians and pirates, and soon he had run away again, this time to stow away on a steamer heading for Constantinople.

In Turkey, he joined a troop of dervishes and learned their whirling dances, their religious rites and "their tricks and hocus pocus."

Back in Russia toward the end of the 19th century, Longo joined forces with a giant, Ivan Vakulin, and a midget, Josephino Kron, and set off to tour the world performing such tricks as putting his hands inside a crocodile's mouth and kissing poisonous anaconda snakes. His cockatoo, Arra, accompanied him everywhere.

It was during this period that he learned to tame cockroaches, by methods he still will not reveal, and made the acquaintance of such luminaries as Edison.

Today, Longo lives quietly in a small Moscow apartment with his granddaughter and her family, too frail to demonstrate any of his old feats, or even to talk for very long without tiring.

ONCE UPON A CLASSIC

PBS premieres the new family drama series: Once Upon A Classic with the adventures of four of literature's best-loved characters, "The Prince and the Pauper," six episodes which began Saturday October 9; "Heidi," six episodes beginning Saturday, November 20; and "David Copperfield," ten episodes beginning Saturday, January 8. All are scheduled at 6 PM.

Hosted by actor Bill Bixby, Once Upon A Classic will present these and other productions of the classics in a three-year series, co-produced by BBC-TV and Time-Life Television.

Rich costumes and sets characterize these productions, produced by the same BBC drama department responsible for so many of PBS's "Masterpiece Theatre" productions. "The Prince and the Pauper," the adventures of Mark Twain's famous doubles, is the first presentation, followed by Johanna Spyri's endearing story of the Swiss orphan girl Heidi and Dickens' spirited tale of David Copperfield. "Robin Hood" is scheduled for the second season and other classics in production, but not yet scheduled are "Lorna Doone," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and "Nicholas Nickleby."

Eight adventure films produced by the British Children's Film Foundation will be special hour features of Once Upon A Classic. The Foundation's films, which will be new to most viewers, are created exclusively for young viewers. On principle, children are protagonists, and the stories are non violent. Four the first season are: "Avalanche" (January 1), the story of two young boys on a mountain climb to near disaster; "The Man From Nowhere" (March 19), a mystery tale about a man in black who stalks an orphan girl in the late 1800's; "The Battle of Billy's Pond" (March 26), where two young sleuths discover how their favorite fishing spot is being polluted; and "Hijack," a dangerous chase after a young boy who hijacks a boat, and passengers.

30 YEARS OF BASEBALL

NBC Sports will offer televised coverage of the World Series of Baseball for the 30th consecutive year beginning Saturday, in the city of the National League Champions. Joe Garagiola and Tony Kubek will provide the commentary for the 1976 baseball classic. NBC's "love affair" with baseball actually spans a 54 year period, starting in 1921 with the first radio broadcast in which the New York Giants defeated the New York Yankees. Grantland Rice described the action in that game. The first telecast was in 1947 when the New York Yankees downed the Brooklyn Dodgers and the commentators were Bob Stanton, Bill Slater and Bob Edge. That telecast was beamed only to New York City, Washington, Philadelphia and Schenectady! The New York Yankees topped the New York Giants in the first coast-to-coast telecast in 1951, and commentary was by Jim Britt and Russ Hodges. The first color telecast came in 1955 when the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the New York Yankees and the announcers were Mel Allen and Vin Scully.

10 YEARS OF MUSIC

Country music superstars Roy Clark (with cap) and Johnny Cash co-host the 10th Annual Country Music Association Awards presentations, honoring outstanding achievements in the country music field, in a live broadcast from the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tennessee, Monday at 9:30PM, on CBS. A galaxy of stars from the country music field will be on hand, including Chet Atkins, Minnie Pearl, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Jessie Colter, Merle Haggard, Waylon Jennings, Loretta Lynn, Mel Tillis, Charley Pride, and Tammy Wynette. Awards will be presented in 10 categories, plus the announcement of the newest members elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

And she might wish she had. Because rape, unlike murder, can kill a mind without killing a body.

Tonight at 10:15, Channel 7 presents a special one-hour progra about a rape victim whose life became a nightmare. Gang-raped ar brutally beaten, she lost nearly everything. Including her will to live

If you ever imagined rape was sexy, rather than violent, don't miss this compelling true story. It's shocking...because it tells the horrible truth about rape.

CLOSE-UP

EAST MEETS WEST

A few years ago Kay Thompson authored a book about "Eloise," a mythical child who lived in a New York hotel. There was a real-life counterpart of Eloise in Los Angeles and his name was–and is–Richard Crenna, now starring in All's Fair, Monday nights 9:30PM on CBS, and co-starring Bernadette Peters.

Growing up in downtown Los Angeles during the 1930's depression years, Crenna met enough real-life "characters" to make a casting director weep with envy. His parents owned and managed a series of small residential hotels and Crenna's back yard was the hotel lobby.

Looking back on it, Crenna says he is amazed he was able to turn out on the right side of the law. "They say that if you bring up a kid in a certain environment he'll turn out that way," Crenna says. "In that case I should be a gambler, an alcoholic, a thief, a tout, bookie or pimp because that's what most of the hotel residents were in those days."

From the age of 11 when he made his radio debut as an actor, Crenna spent most of his childhood riding streetcars to work in the fantasy-land of network radio, then home again to the Runyonesque world of his parents' hotel.

Crenna has no regrets. "For a kid with a tremendous curiosity about people, it was great to grow up in the middle of the city and meet this great cross-section of humanity who seem to huddle in the downtown areas of cities."

The two or three hotels Crenna grew up in were filled with strange, but interesting types. He remembers being taught to fight by ex-boxers, taught to play cards by an ex-card shark on a gambling ship, and learning all about shoplifting (but having the sense not to put the information to use) by a man who had been written up in a magazine as the guy who once stole a canoe out of Abercrombie & Fitch in New York–and went back next day and stole the paddles.

And how has Crenna's childhood affected how he raises his own children? "They have a lot of knowledge I didn't have at their age," Crenna admits, "but if they ever want to know how to steal a canoe out of Abercrombie & Fitch, they'll still have to come to their old man!"

Bernadette Peters and Crenna are as different as Queens New York and Los Angeles, but there are also similarities in their backgrounds. Also from a non-showbusiness family, Bernadette's father drove a bread truck in Queens. She was younger than Crenna when she got her start–at age 5–on a New York television show. At age nine she was cast in her first play and at age 13 she played "Baby June" in a road tour of "Gypsy." In 1968 she opened in "Dames at Sea" at Manhattan's Bouwrie Theatre to rave reviews and appeared in the musical, "La Strada," on Broadway as well as a revival of "On the Town," for which she received a Tony nomination. The highlight of her career to date was her starring role opposite Robert Preston in "Mack & Mabel," on Broadway, for which she received a second Tony nomination and rave reviews from New York theatre critics.

Great Moments by Men Who Lived Them

Robert Shaw:
A "Hungry Fighter"
Gobbles Up Success

Shaw on Shaw:
"I've great vulnerability and insecurity—it has to do with being English."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

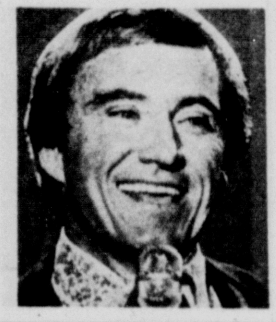
FOR IRVING WALLACE,
author of "The R Document"

Do you get mentally fatigued while writing and, if so, what do you do to refresh your mind and continue work?—James M. Hartle, Cutesville, Mo.

● Yes, I do get tired, and if it happens when I'm writing a novel, I switch to working on a nonfiction book, and vice versa. If that doesn't do the trick, I take a long hike through my neighborhood. If the feeling persists after all this, I have a foolproof cure—I take off for a quick trip of three or four days. I come back fresh as a daisy and as good as new.

FOR MERV GRIFFIN

Are you satisfied being a successful talk-showman, or do you have a secret ambition?—William S. Pfriender, Glen Rock, N.J.



● I have two ambitions. One came true last May 16 when I conducted the Monterey Symphony Orchestra. The second is to win at Wimbledon!

FOR DEBBIE REYNOLDS

How do you feel about housework?—M.D., Hollywood, Calif.

● Best part of it is the result! I like to see my house sparkling. Especially the kitchen and bathroom. I'm either on my hands and knees scrubbing or else on top of a ladder straightening out shelves and closets. The way I look at it is that it's a way of working off energy—of which I have loads.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED, star of "The Waltons"

● Losing one of my kids. I'm a born worrier (better than I used to be when Caleb, 18, Chris, 16, and Luke, 13, were small), but I still have a long way to go before I can call myself relaxed. I never go to sleep at night until the boys are home, even though they always call to let me know where they are. If they're five minutes late, I'm a basket case.

FOR RUDY VALLEE

I hear you sang your old Whiffenpoof song at CARE's 30th-anniversary ball and there was hardly a dry eye. Is that your favorite song?—Mrs. M.J.W., Washington, D.C.

● I hate that song. Always have. My favorite is "Sylvia," an oldie that nobody remembers. I feel the same way about nostalgia as I do about "Whiffenpoof." It's silly. Someone tried to give me a big thrill by showing me a 1914 Packard. I told him it was a lousy car then, and age hasn't helped it.

FOR MARTY ALLEN, comedian

What are the qualifications for becoming a comedian?—C.B., Great Falls, Mont.

● A lot of sensitivity and tenderness. It's not true that in order to be a clown you have to suffer, like the one in I Pagliacci. Perhaps some comics are basically sad people, but I think the truth of the matter is that they're more emotional than sad. I'm very emotional and also a strange bird. People are the great love of my life. I'm not envious when others get to the top—there's room for everyone . . . at least, I hope there will be if and when I get there.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

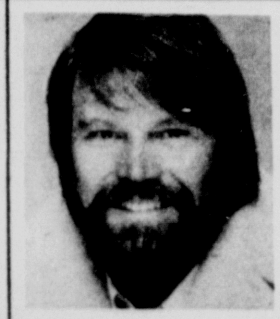
Do you really believe that men's neckties tell something about the way our society is going sexually?—Joan Moore, Durham, N.C.

● Definitely. As societies become more sexually oriented and less repressed, neckties become bigger and bolder.

FOR KAYE BALLARD, star of "The Ritz"

What's the thing you wanted most in life?—N.J., Green Bay, Wis.

● Owning a Mercedes—since the day I was old enough to know about cars. I finally got one a month before the 73's came out and grinned from ear to ear for four months. Then my grins turned to groans. What the salesman conveniently forgot to tell me was that the style of the car changes every seven years. I got mine right before the new model came out. However, I did get what I wanted, and so what if I was a bit behind the times!



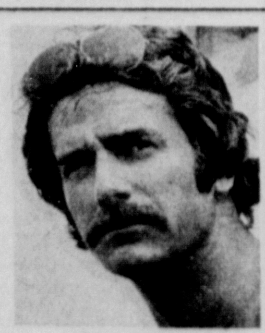
FOR GLEN CAMPBELL

What's the difference between making records and singing at concerts?—M.S., Cocoa Beach, Fla.

● As far as I'm concerned, really none, because it's all work I like to do. But to break it down, studio musicians are usually better performers because whatever they do goes down on tape. It has to be done in a short time. When I did that, I also worked for Merle Haggard in the afternoon and Frank Sinatra at night. What I learned in the studio paid off when I was before a live audience.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I just saw "Lifeguard" and freaked out on Sam Elliott. Is he new in films? Tell me everything you know about him, please.—E.C., Reno, Nev.



Sam Elliott

● After Sam left school, he first did a stint in the Army; then, with his mother's blessings, he tried his luck in Hollywood. After both bad breaks and lucky ones, he did a Movie-of-the-Week, which resulted in his working on "Mission: Impossible." By the way, Sam is getting as much fan mail for "Lifeguard" as Al Pacino did for "The Godfather." He's not married, dates actress Melissa Newman (of the musical Newmans, not Paul's family). He's a great cook; enjoys the outdoors, working with cattle and visiting California's famous State Beach. When girls stare and say, "You can't be Sam Elliott. No star would come to this beach," Sam replies: "Why not? I've been coming for years." You'll see Sam in a new TV series, "Best Sellers."

Great Moments From World Series Past

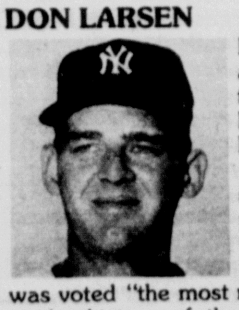
By the Men Who Made Them Happen

By Larry Bortstein

Nearly every American is touched in some way by the World Series. It's during this time each fall when millions of people, many of whom have ignored baseball all year, stop and ask their neighbors, "Who's winning?" The 1975 World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox produced not only some of the best competition in the history of baseball —it also produced some of the highest TV ratings.

But, as any World Series fan can tell you, there are certain moments in World Series history that stand out among all the rest. FAMILY WEEKLY asked several men who helped make baseball history, by starring in World Series of the past 20 years, to recall their great moments. Here are their reminiscences:

DON LARSEN



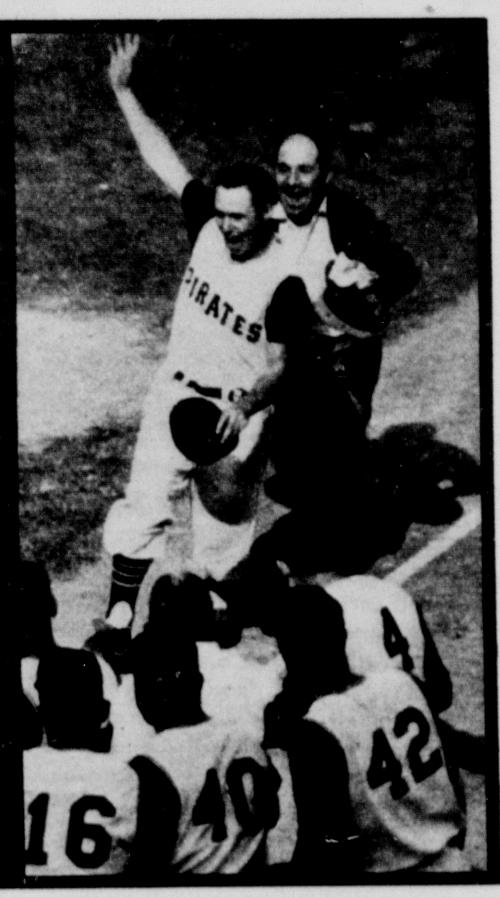
Earlier this year, in a special poll to determine the greatest highlights of major-league baseball's first 100 years, Don Larsen's perfect pitching performance in the fifth game of the 1956 World Series was voted "the most memorable moment" in the history of the post-season classic. Larsen set down all 27 Brooklyn Dodgers in a 2-0 victory at Yankee Stadium on October 8, 1956. Larsen now lives in Morgan Hill, Calif., near San Jose, where he works in sales for a paper company.

"It still kind of surprises me that Casey Stengel decided to use me as his starter in the fifth game. Brooklyn had won the first game, 8-3, in Ebbets Field. I started the second game for the Yankees. We took a quick 6-0 lead off Don Newcombe, and it looked like we were going to run away with it. But I walked four guys in the bottom of the second and Stengel took me out. Before that inning was over the Dodgers had tied the game with six runs, and they went on to win it, 13-8.

"We won the next two games to even the Series, and then Casey named me as the fifth-game starter. I had figured I might not be pitching at all, so I was as surprised as anyone. Sal Maglie, who had won the first game of the Series, was pitching for Brooklyn. He retired our first 11 men before Mickey Mantle hit a homer off him in the fourth. We got another run off Maglie in the sixth.

UPI

Don Larsen, right, the perfect pitcher, got a bear hug from teammate Yogi Berra when he pitched the Yankees—and himself—to glory in the 1956 World Series.



Wide World

Second baseman Bill Mazeroski was swamped by fans as he headed home on his ninth-inning homer, giving the Pirates a 10-9 victory in the 1960 World Series.

That was it.

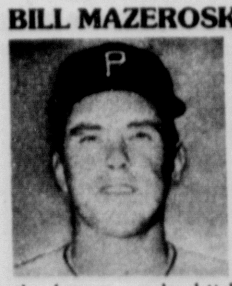
"I had great control that day, probably the best I ever had. The only man who went to a three-ball count was Pee Wee Reese in the first inning, and I got him on a called third strike on the next pitch.

"You have to be very lucky to pitch the kind of game I did. The Dodgers hit a few balls that very easily could have been hits. Gil Hodges hit maybe the two hardest balls off me that day. In the fifth inning he sent Mantle deep into left-center for a one-handed catch. In a small park like Ebbets Field, that ball probably would have been a homer. In the eighth inning, Hodges hit a low line drive that Andy Carey, our third baseman, grabbed one-handed, just a few inches off the ground.

"I was lucky a couple other times, too. In the fourth inning, Duke Snider got around on a fast ball and hit a long shot into the lower stands in right—just foul. Earlier, leading off the second inning, Jackie Robinson hit a smash at Carey which was so hard that it deflected off Andy's glove over to Gil McDougald at short. Gil whipped an incredibly perfect throw to first to get Jackie.

"I don't know why that perfect game happened to me. I wasn't a great pitcher. I was only 81-91 for my career, and I was 11-5 in 1956 as a part-time starter and reliever. But that's one game they'll never be able to take away from me."

BILL MAZEROSKI



During his 17 years as the second baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1956-72, Mazeroski took part in more double plays than any other second baseman in history. But Bill is best remembered for the home run he hit leading off the bottom of the ninth inning in the seventh game of the 1960 World Series to give Pittsburgh a 10-9 victory and the championship. It is the only time a World Series has been decided in sudden death in the ninth inning of a seventh game. Mazeroski now is involved in several business interests in the Pittsburgh area.

"That was an amazing season for us. The Pirates had finished last or nearly last almost every year, but in 1960 everything went right. The more we won, the more people expected us to fall on our faces. It was like they couldn't believe it. And it was kind of freaky, actually. We won 95 games, and 21 of those wins came in the ninth inning. We were at a point where no matter how many runs we were behind, we figured we had a chance to win.

"When we got to the Series, hardly anybody gave us a chance to beat the Yankees. They had the most powerful batting lineup in the majors. It really was a strange Series. After we won the first game, 6-4, a game in which I hit a two-run homer in the fourth, New York won the next two, 16-3 and 10-0. We won the next two in low-scoring games, 3-2 and 5-2, but the Yankees won the sixth game with their third wild-hitting game of the Series, 12-0.

"In the seventh game we knocked out Bob Turley with four runs in the first two innings, but New York went ahead, 5-4 in the sixth and got two more runs in the top of the eighth. In the bottom of the eighth, we came back with five runs, three of them on a homer by our back-up catcher, Hal Smith. Still, we didn't have it won. The Yanks tied it with two runs in the top of the ninth.

"I was the first man up in the bottom of the inning. I was never a big home-run hitter, but I did hit my share, 19 one year, 16 another. I had hit only 11 in 1960 during the regular season, but I was thinking home run all the way when I went up there against Ralph Terry. He had gotten the last out in the eighth after we came up with those five runs. Terry was the type of pitcher who gave up a lot of homers. A lot of people criticized Casey Stengel later on for letting him pitch in relief when a home run could win the game. But how can you second-guess something like that? All Stengel could do was use the guy he thought could get the side out. Anyway, Terry threw me one pitch I didn't like. Then he came in with a fast ball, a good pitch, a little above my waist. I took a good cut, and I knew it was gone the second it left my bat. The Series was ours, 10-9."

Wide World

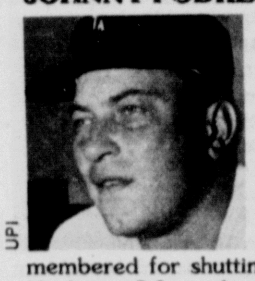
Robinson, in the '70 Series, making one of his sensational plays for the Orioles—the champs.

JOHNNY PODRES



UPI

Podres was a great left-hander who won 148 games during a major-league career that spanned 15 seasons, most of them with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers. But he'll always be best remembered for shutting out the New York Yankees, 2-0, in the seventh game of the 1955 World Series to give Brooklyn its first World Series title. Podres is now a roving pitching instructor in the Boston Red Sox organization and makes his home in Witherbee, N.Y.

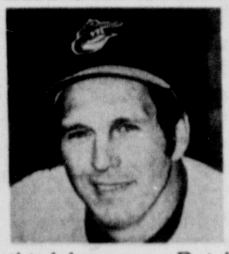
"I would have to say winning the last game in 1955 was the highlight of my career. It came at the end of a frustrating season. I had missed about a month altogether with different injuries, including back problems. I had only a 9-10 record for the season, and most people figured me as no major factor in the Series.

"But we lost the first two games in Yankee Stadium, so manager Walt Alston went to me for the third game at Ebbets Field. It was my 23rd birthday —September 30, 1955. I won, 8-3, and that in itself was a great thrill. Finally, it came down to the seventh game. Alston gave me the ball. I pitched real well, scattering eight hits, and the big play of the game for us was when Sandy Amoros made a great running catch of Yogi Berra's fly ball down the left-field line and doubled Gil McDougald off first base.

"Roy Campanella called a great game behind the plate. I threw mostly fast balls the first four innings because of the shadows around home plate, but from the fourth inning on I went to my change-up. The only time I shook Campanella off on a sign was in the last of the ninth. Elston Howard was the last man up for the Yankees, and I wanted to strike him out to end the game with a big finish. On the 1-2 pitch, Campy called for a change-up, but I threw Howard a fast ball, and he grounded to Pee Wee Reese, who threw to Gil Hodges for the out that gave us the championship.

"There was a funny result to that game. A couple of years before, when I was still in the minors, I had failed my physical examination for military service because of my bad back. But after I pitched the Dodgers to the championship, I was called in for another examination, and this time I passed. I spent the entire 1956 season in the Navy."

BROOKS ROBINSON



Robinson has played more games at third base than any other player. This has been his twenty-second season with the Baltimore Orioles, and he holds about every career fielding record that exists for third basemen. But he was never greater than in the 1970 World Series when the Orioles beat the Reds in five games. He batted .429 and made one sensational defensive play after another.

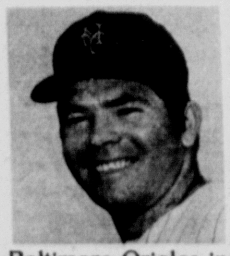
"I don't think I was ever more 'up' for a series of games than I was in that 1970 World Series. We had lost to the Mets in 1969, so I desperately wanted to win it all in '70. We play so many games during the regular season that it's impossible to be as psychologically ready for every game as you want to be. But, if you can't get up for a World Series, you're in the wrong business.

"People remember all the tough fielding plays I made in that 1970 Series. The truth is, I had more difficult chances during those five games than at any other time of my career. It was amazing, all the balls the Cincinnati batters would hit down that third-base line, to my right or to my left. And somehow I kept coming up with them. I'll never be able to explain it.

"I was lucky a couple of times. There was one ball Johnny Bench hit that was a smash over the bag. I backhanded it while running to my right, and made an off-balance throw. I knew it wouldn't reach Boog Powell, our first-baseman, on a line. But it took a big hop and Boog gloved it before Bench got to first. Then I remember Lee May, the Reds' first baseman, hitting one over the bag which I gloved backhanded and threw to first in time. Lee's been a teammate of mine on the Orioles the past couple of years, and we often kid about the fact that he made me a star by hitting so many balls to me that '70 Series. It does seem as if I robbed Lee more than any other Cincinnati player.

"I think hitters have more pressure on them during a Series than glove men. Good fielders are a dime a dozen. I'm convinced that my good fielding in that Series helped me relax at the plate and allowed me to get nine hits in 21 at-bats, including two homers. I was voted the Most Valuable Player in that Series, and that is the greatest thrill I've ever received. I expect I'll still be playing next year at the age of 40. Playing in the majors at that age has been one of my big ambitions for a long time."

RON SWOBODA



Swoboda spent nine years, 1965-73, in the majors, the first six with the New York Mets. He was one of the key figures in the Mets' amazing run to the World Series title in five games over the Baltimore Orioles in 1969. He batted .400 and starred in the field. Ron is now a sports commentator for WCBS-TV in New York City.

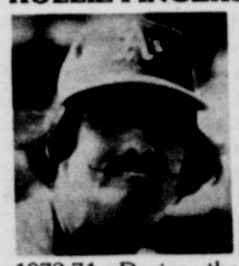
"I made a lot of mistakes in the field my first couple of years with the Mets, so even after I became a pretty good outfielder I still had the reputation of being weak defensively. That's why my catch of Brooks Robinson's ball in the ninth inning of the fourth game in the 1969 Series surprised so many people

"We were leading, 1-0, having already taken a 2-1 lead in the Series, and Tom Seaver was pitching a great game. But in the ninth the Orioles got runners on first and third with one out. Then Brooks hit a hard shot to right field. It's the kind of play you can't think about. You just have to act. I dove for the ball and grabbed it one-handed an inch above the grass. Frank Robinson scored from third to tie the game, but if that ball had gone through, it would have scored both runners easily, and Brooks most likely would have had a triple. We finally won the game, 2-1, in the tenth.

"The next day, we wrapped up the Series, 5-3, at Shea Stadium. The game was tied, 3-3, in the bottom of the eighth, when Cleon Jones and I hit doubles to produce one run. So I got credit for the game winner, and when the Orioles made two errors on the next play, I scored all the way from second with the final run. I ended the Series with six hits in 15 trips to the plate.

"A World Series usually isn't a true representation of the strength or weakness of a team. It's a short series of games, after all, and anything can happen. I happened to hit .400 in those five games, but obviously I was no .400 hitter. We played well for that short period, so we won. The strategy of a team in a World Series is to blunt the effectiveness of the stars of the other team, and that's what we did."

ROLLIE FINGERS



Fingers recently completed his ninth season with the Oakland A's. As the team's premier right-handed relief pitcher, he was a key figure in helping Oakland win three consecutive World Series, 1972-74. During the three World Series victories, Rollie appeared in 16 games, won two, saved six and recorded a brilliant 1.35 earned run average in 33⅓ innings.

"You never get tired of playing in the World Series. I believe we might have contended for seven or eight world titles in a row if our team hadn't been broken up by Charlie Finley.

"Winning the first of our three straight championships was my biggest kick. We beat Cincinnati in seven games in 1972. The next year we beat the New York Mets in seven games. Then we beat Los Angeles in five games in 1974. But the first one was best. My biggest satisfaction came in being the guy who got the last man out in the seventh game, which we won 3-2. It was Pete Rose, and since the game was played in Cincinnati, naturally the fans were going wild. I forget the count, but I threw him a strike which he hit to left field, where Joe Rudi caught it for the final out.

"In 1974, when we swept the last three games at Oakland to beat the Dodgers, I also got the last out in the last game when Von Joshua pinch-hit for their catcher, Steve Yeager, and tapped the ball back to the mound. I threw over to Gene Tenace at first, and we had another championship."

OE MORGAN

Morgan, the left-hand - batting second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1975 when he batted .327, drove in 94 runs and recorded the highest fielding average in the league at his position. Joe's looping single to center field in the top of the ninth inning of the seventh game of last year's World Series drove home the run that gave the Reds a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox and the world championship. Joe has continued his superb play for the Reds in 1976.

"I waited a long time to play in a World Series. My first eight years in the majors I played with losing teams in Houston. Then, in 1972, I was traded to Cincinnati. We got into the Series that fall, but we lost to Oakland, and I didn't hit well, only .125. Still, I was just happy to be there.

"Last year was different for me, though. I knew what to expect, and I was extremely proud that I got the hit that drove in the winning run in the last game for us—even though it was a bloop hit. I'll take any hit I can get. I think we won the Series because in the long run we handled their hitters better than they handled ours. I think we were better prepared. They knew how to pitch to our big sluggers, but they didn't know enough about guys like Ken Griffey. Griffey tagged Luis Tiant for a big triple in the sixth game. When I ran into Tiant in spring training this past March, he admitted that the Red Sox hadn't scouted Griffey carefully enough."

Now the 1976 Series is upon us, and nearly every one has produced a hero. This time, will it be a superstar playing his superbest or a rank-and-filer who'll be touched by Fate for a magic moment—and next year's yarn?

My slacks didn't stretch. I "shrank" 79 pounds.

By Shirley Wentz—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Me, at a gross 200 pounds. Next to my baby daughter, I really look like I weigh more.

That's right. I went from a solid 200 pounds to a trim 121 and wound up looking like Mrs. Baggy Pants. But it was the most beautiful sight in the world to me.

Funny thing is, I never really thought I looked as big as I did. My husband certainly never said anything to me about my weight. And it's probably just as well because I hurt easily. I remember once, when visiting my father-in-law, he said: "Shirley, you make two of your sisters." I didn't say anything but I didn't go back for another six months.

Meanwhile, I tried several drastic ways of losing weight. Mainly through the mail. By that I mean I sent away for diet pills. One ad said something like "Lose weight overnight while you're sleeping." But like the other things I tried, these pills didn't work, either. So I continued to eat ice cream, potato chips, pizza, bread—enough fattening food to fill out a size 20 dress. I also tried "starving" myself. But I got sick and even had dizzy spells.

Finally, I went to my doctor and asked him for some reducing-drug pills that would work. But I didn't get any satisfaction there, either. He simply said: "Shirley, if you'd just set your mind to losing weight, you could do it." My problem was I knew I couldn't do it without help. So I went back to looking through magazines for some kind of reducing aid. And you know what? I found one. Only it's spelled A-y-d-s , the reducing plan candy that contains vitamins and minerals but no drugs. I bought a box of the vanilla caramel kind at one of the stores in Hanover, Pa.; then I started following the Ayds plan.

I took two Ayds before each meal, either with hot coffee or with hot broth, and those candies really helped satisfy my appetite. I was able to eat regular meals, but I ate smaller portions. At supper, for instance, I'd have a piece of meat, potato, a vegetable, even a little bread. And I was happy. Of course, the weight didn't come off overnight, but I sure lost it steadily. I know because I kept a record. There's a chart in each Ayds box and by writing down how many pounds I took off each week, I always knew where I was at. Why, in the first few weeks, I dropped 10 pounds, yet I overheard a woman in a store say it took her three months to lose the same amount on another diet.

As the scale went down more, I began getting out more. I even dragged my husband onto a dance floor to do "The Bump". Why, it made me feel like a teen-ager again. It also made me feel stiff and sore, but not for long. Besides, it was good exercise and well worth the laughs. So you can see I really had fun getting down to 121 pounds. What's more, thanks to the Ayds plan, I can nearly get both my legs into one leg of my old fat slacks. Isn't that nice?

Me, at 121 pounds. I keep those baggy pants around to remind me never to get fat again.

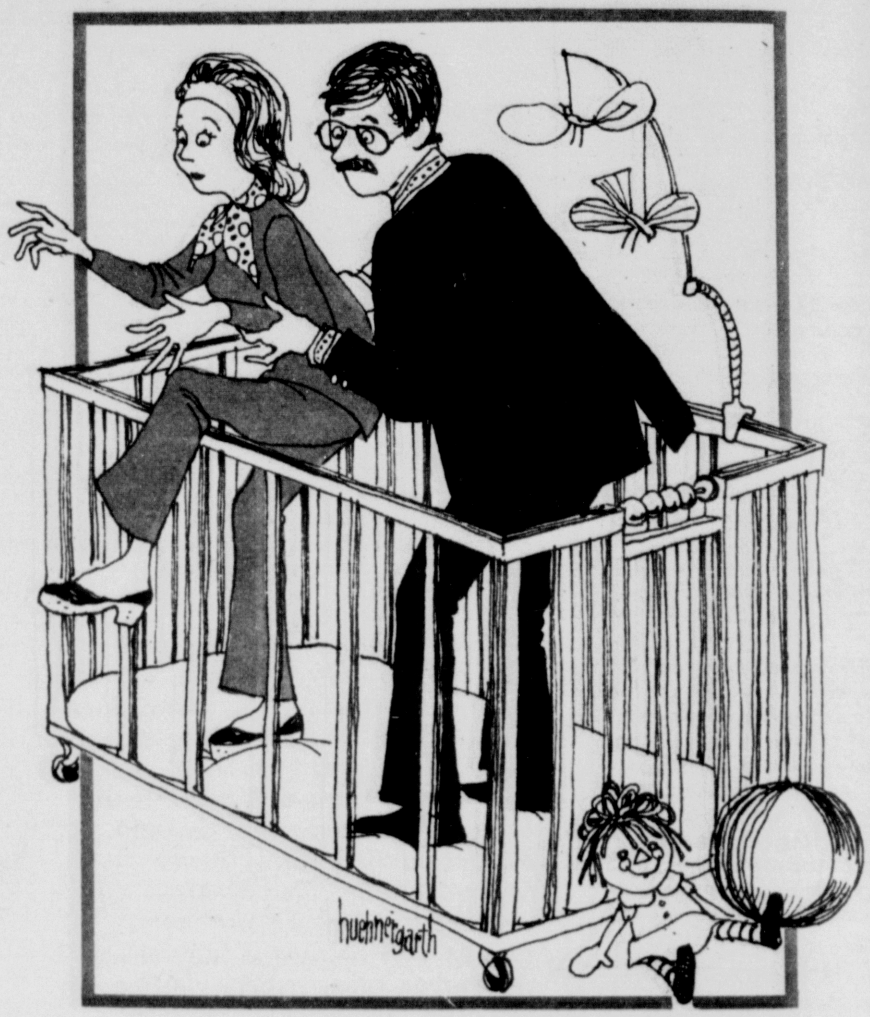
HOW TO GROW UP, WAKE UP, AND LIVE



"If the perceptions of childhood are not consciously updated, you find yourself 'grown' but not 'grownup.'"

By Mildred Newman and Bernard Berkowitz

We've been in the profession of helping people help themselves for many years and have seen that people can and do help themselves to find happiness, to change and grow. That's why we're not afraid—really no one should be afraid—of growing older. One can always continue to grow, no matter how much time goes by. That's the secret of feeling young.

So often people say, "I couldn't help myself," instead of "I didn't help myself." People go to a lot of trouble to learn all kinds of things. They have the patience to operate a car, but won't bother learning to operate themselves. It isn't easy because it involves effort and some frustration—but it is possible and so worthwhile.

Many people live as if they're trying to protect the past. Without knowing it, we all hold onto unconscious childhood beliefs, subjecting ourselves to unhappiness. Here's a simple example: The child's position in life is dependent; he has to please people. But such an attitude can be a trap for an adult. Hidden away in the unconscious are many "forgotten" thoughts of this nature. They are systems of thinking, ways of looking at the world and ourselves, ways that influence and govern our lives today.

It is difficult to know if you are living this dream life. Often you're the last to know. As the saying goes, if you were to ask a fish about its world, water would be the last thing it would describe. In trying to find out if you're clinging to the past, there are certain clues to look for: If you see your lifetime experiences falling into a negative pattern—mishaps always happening to you or people consistently misunderstanding and mistreating you—and if you are easily distracted, it could be that you are holding onto the past—sleepwalking in a dream.

In our latest book, How to Be Awake and Alive, we've tried to recapture those fantastic moments when

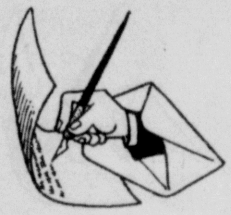
Observations™



Mail to the Chief. Popping off to presidential candidates is a neglected art form that probably suffers from insufficient neglect. Still, we recognize the open-letter writing urge that throbs secretly within many a human breast, including our own. So giving in to the urge . . .

Dear Candidates,

Any American who stops to think about it has to be pretty unhappy that, after years of energy problems, the U.S. still doesn't have a national energy policy. It's needed—badly—because the U.S. is using up the oil it produces faster than it is finding new domestic supplies. We live on borrowed time, filling the gap with imported oil. What to do?

Some think solar and other exotic sources will bail us out, but they're decades away. Others pipedream of achieving energy sufficiency simply by conserving on fuel use, forgetting that too many people ignore even the 55 mph speed limit. And, despite oil imports which this year alone may cost the U.S. economy as much as $35 billion, there are actually those who favor importing still more oil. But leaders of many oil-producing countries don't want their irreplaceable oil used too fast just because America lacks the will to adopt a coordinated policy covering oil, gas, coal, shale, nuclear and other possible energy sources—one that encourages the U.S. energy industry to produce more energy so there'll be economic growth to provide jobs and social progress.

Accordingly, would the one who gets elected in November kindly put energy on the front burner? If you make progress toward solving it realistically in the next four years, your party's 1980 prospects will benefit. So will the American people.

Hopefully,

"WHEN DID YOU FIRST FIND YOU HAD AN AVERSION TO PEANUTS?"

Beautiful and passionate, young and impulsive; above all, a restless dreamer. That was Emma Bovary, the country doctor's wife who battled the rigidities of rural life in mid-nineteenth-century France. Masterpiece Theatre reveals Emma's innermost secrets in "Madame Bovary," a four-part dramatization of Flaubert's classic novel, beginning tonight over PBS stations. Francesca Annis plays the dazzling Emma.

Coming up, too, on Masterpiece Theatre's 1976-77 schedule will be 16 new episodes of "Upstairs, Downstairs." With World War I behind them, the Bellamys and their household staff come to grips with the England of the roaring twenties.

AWAKE AND ALIVE

people who are in therapy with us realized for the first time that they were not completely living in the "here and now"—that a part of them was living in the past. When they've understood that, it is sometimes possible for them to wake up to the present. How does it feel? Many of our patients say that until that moment they felt as though they were sleepwalking through their lives, and afterward they felt "awake and alive."

We continually draw many examples of self-defeating life dreams from our patients. Frequently there is the tendency to make oneself a victim. There's the "I'll show you someday" routine, which links growing up with getting even for childhood hurts. We're concerned with fear of success, rather than fear of failure. Success is about growing up, and a great many people are afraid to do just that. Success also brings with it a certain responsibility; failure does not.

It is essential to remember that now is now and then is then. This is what we mean by change—not appearing different or being different, but learning a different way of looking at things. In analysis, perhaps all we can do is look at things from a different point of view. When you see things from another point of view, there are more choices open to you. This is also the essence of humor—seeing something shift and looking at it from another angle.

Humor, by the way, plays an important role in our approach. We put a great deal of stock in what a person's favorite joke or story may really represent. "The Kreplach Story," told repeatedly by a woman, is a good example (Kreplach are little three-cornered filled crepes, like won-ton or ravioli): A young boy would scream violently every time he saw kreplach. His therapist told his mother to simply take the boy home and prepare the dish from beginning to end so the boy could watch, follow each step and not scream any more. The mother did just that. She rolled the flour and showed him the dough and asked, "Are you afraid of this?" He answered, "No." She showed him the chopped meat and asked again if he was afraid. The answer again was "no." Then she put the meat in the dough, and still he wasn't afraid. But when she put it all together, he shrieked, "Kreplach!"

We would often wonder why the young woman kept telling us this story, until we realized it was the story of her life. She would meet a man who was unsuccessful, build him up, and when he became a "man," she would scream "Kreplach!" and become very frightened of him. As soon as a man was functioning and could stand on his own two feet and didn't need her to "carry him" she would find a way to drop him and go on to the next unsuccessful man. As long as the man was dependent, she could feel grown up. As soon as the man could take care of himself, she felt uncomfortably "little."

One must learn to evaluate himself realistically. Give yourself credit for what you are, and don't focus on the things yet to be accomplished. Being realistic means knowing what you can and cannot do. It's very strengthening to your ego to realize that there are some things you cannot do and that everybody can't do everything. Be fair in your evaluation. Learn to like yourself, because if you have yourself as a friend, you have a friend for life.

"When you see things from another point of view, there are more choices open to you."

In learning to be awake and alive, it's best to begin with reflection. Every life needs a direction, a purpose. Without goals, we drift uncomfortably. So at every stage in life we must face making sense out of existence by reflecting upon and making decisions about what is important, what is less important, what is safe, what is frightening, what is satisfying, what is empty.

Judgments made in childhood must be reviewed and revised with the passing of the years. What was important to a child cannot be equally important to an adult. If the perceptions and judgments of childhood are not consciously updated, you find yourself "grown" but not "grownup," because you keep alive the distortions of the past. It is not easy to let go of the outworn dreams of childhood. Courage and uncompromising honesty with oneself make possible the moment of awakening. It is necessary to be aware of and to fight off the recurring temptation to go back to the familiar notions of the past. The resolve to see this past through is strengthened by remembering that a new, adult view of life will be more in touch with the present. Only by seeing the present clearly can we begin to cope with the world as it is, let alone build a better one.

A TREASURY OF HOME-BAKED TREATS

Family Weekly COOKBOOK
By Marilyn Hansen
Food Editor

With the changing season, many homemakers enjoy getting back into the kitchen and trying out new dishes. These tantalizing recipes all contain crunchy almonds—a favorite ingredient because of their special flavor. When you take these treats from the oven, your family will find it hard to wait till they cool off!

BRAIDED ALMOND-HERB BREAD

- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- ¼ cup very warm water (105°F.-115°F.)
- ¼ cup margarine or butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 3½-4 cups unsifted all-purpose or unbleached flour
- 1 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- ½ teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed
- ½ cup finely chopped almonds
- 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water

1. Dissolve yeast in warm water and set aside.
2. In large mixing bowl, combine margarine, sugar, salt and milk. Stir to melt margarine; then cool to lukewarm.
3. Stir in yeast, 2 cups flour, the herbs and all but 2 tablespoons almonds. Beat well. With large spoon, work in remaining flour, adding enough to make dough. Turn onto floured surface and knead for about 5 minutes.
4. Place in greased bowl; turn dough in bowl to coat all sides.
5. Cover and let rise in a warm place until dough is doubled in bulk (about 1½ hours).
6. To shape dough, turn out onto floured surface. Cut off one-third dough. Then divide remaining two-thirds dough into 3 equal parts, shaping each into a 14-inch rope. Braid ropes and place on greased baking sheet.
7. Shape remaining small piece of dough into 2 (11-inch) ropes. Twist and place on top of braided loaf. Brush with egg and sprinkle with remaining almonds.
8. Let rise in warm place until doubled. Bake at 400°F. for about 30 minutes. Makes 1 loaf

To the 56,000,000 people who smoke cigarettes.

A lot of people have been telling you not to smoke, especially cigarettes with high 'tar' and nicotine. But smoking provides you with a pleasure you don't want to give up.

Naturally, we're prejudiced. We're in the business of selling cigarettes.

But there is one overriding fact that transcends whether you should or shouldn't smoke and that fact is that you do smoke.

And what are they going to do about that?

They can continue to exhort you not to smoke. Or they might look reality in the face and recommend that, if you smoke and want low 'tar' and nicotine in a cigarette, you smoke a cigarette like Vantage.

And we'll go along with that, because there is no other cigarette like Vantage

Except Vantage.

Vantage has a unique filter that allows rich flavor to come through it and yet substantially cuts down on 'tar' and nicotine.

Not that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette. (But you probably wouldn't like the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette anyway.)

The plain truth is that smoke has to come through a filter if taste is to come through a filter. And where there is taste there has to be some 'tar.'

But Vantage is the only cigarette that gives you so much flavor with so little 'tar' and nicotine.

So much flavor that you'll never miss your high 'tar' cigarette.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

FILTER: 11 mg. "tar", 0.7 mg. nicotine, MENTHOL: 11 mg. "tar", 0.8 mg. nicotine, av. per cigarette, FTC Report A
